Move To Amend Tax Extension Bill

To Push Repeal Of Travel Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new drive to repeal the 10 per cent passenger travel tax and perhaps some other federal exercises will be launched in the Senate this month.

Sen. George S. Smathers (D-Fla) said Saturday he would try to tack the travel tax repealer onto the corporation and excise tax extension bill when it comes before the Finance Committee.

If he fails there, he is expected to renew his effort on the Senate floor with good chances of success.

Last year the Senate adopted an identical Smathers amendment to the extension bill by a 50-35 vote. But it was dropped in conference with the House. Another proposal of the Florida senator, repeal of the 3 per cent freight tax, was retained and became law.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va), finance committee chairman, told a reporter he would oppose moves to amend the extension bill. And he said he doubted the House was in a mood to take any tax repeal provisions as amendments, even if the Senate adopted them.

The travel tax brings in about 225 million dollars a year. Railroads and airlines, particularly, have pushed for its elimination.

In addition to Smathers' proposal, Sen. Robert Kerr (D-Okla) may offer an amendment to repeal 10 per cent communications excise taxes. He already had introduced such a measure as separate legislation. But, since the House must originate tax bills, he can get it considered only by proposing it as an amendment to a House bill.

The communications levies bring in about 650 million dollars a year, mostly from local telephone bills. The taxes also hit long distance calls, telegraph and cable messages.

A group of Northern Democratic senators also has served notice it will push for loophole - closing amendments to the extension bill designed to bring in an extra 2¼ billion dollars of annual revenue.

Rochester Grain Elevator Burns

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)A fire of undetermined origin Saturday destroyed a grain elevator at nearby Rochester with a loss estimated at $75,000.

Rochester is 7 miles southeast of Springfield on State Route 29.

Marshall Watkins, owner of the elevator, who estimated the loss, said 23,500 bushels of government owned surplus corn also were destroyed. Also lost were two railroad freight cars and a truck owned by Watkins.

Fire departments from eight communities, including Springfield, helped Rochester firemen put out the blaze.

Watkins theorized a short circuit in the electric system may have been responsible for the fire.

House Democrats Push Compromise Labor Bill To Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders are backing a drive to try to bring a compromise labor bill to a vote in the House next month.

Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, in a move to end bickering in the House Labor Committee, has spurred the speed-up effort by according at least tentative backing to methods proposed by Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif).

The Roosevelt approach, embodied in an eleventh-hour bill, would limit the legislation to antiracketering controls which reflect some suggestions already put forth by various labor union spokesmen.

Any consideration of controversial amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act would be postponed until next year, and made subject to recommendations of a joint Senate - House study committee.

Rayburn told newsmen Saturday that Congress must act this session on antiracketeering legislation. But he said he did not want to involve the House in irrelevant controversy over Taft-Hartley revision.

Roosevelt's proposals, drafted after consultation with House leaders, appeared to conform in part to Rayburn's standards. The Californian said most labor committee members have agreed informally on a target date of July 15 for approving a labor bill—"although I think we can beat this," he said.

Committee Republicans, a minority of 10 on the 30 - member committee, have teamed up with one Democratic faction in the effort to get a bill to the floor. Rep. William H. Ayres (R-Ohio) said he thought this could be done in 10 days.

Roosevelt said he regarded the general provisions of his bill acceptable to organized labor.

"In all honesty, I must say that some labor leaders don't want a bill of rights," he said. "But they can live with it, and the rest of the provisions are completely acceptable."

Roosevelt has adopted almost verbatim a so - called "Bill of Rights" put forward by spokesmen for James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union at committee hearings last week.

New Propulsion System For Space Engines Proposed

AZUSA, Calif. (AP) — A new space engine capable of speeds up to three million m.p.h. on fuel costing less than 50 cents a pound was proposed Saturday by a space scientist.

Y. C. Lee, Chinese-born chief of Aerojet-General's new space technology division, said the propulsion system would be "feasible within three to five years without requiring scientific breakthroughs."

He said Aerojet has 50 people working on the project now. With government funding, he said, the new engine could be ready to use as the top stage of the proposed Convair - Jet Propulsion Laboratory's Vega space rocket.

Lee's colloidal propulsion system depends—as do the various ion rockets now under development—upon ejection of tiny electrically charged particles through a nozzle. The new Aerojet engine would be used only after it had been boosted to space by conventional liquid- or solid-fuel engines. Lee said the engine operates on a secret "but commonly obtainable" material costing 25 to 50 cents a pound.

Ion engines currently under study use such fuels as cesium, which is rare and costs $900 a pound, he said.

State Asks Jury Reject Racial Bias, Convict Four Youths

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The state Saturday night asked the Tallahassee rape jury to reject racial bias and convict four white youths in an alleged attack on a Negro coed. The defense urged acquittal.

In a dramatic final summation State Atty. William D. Hopkins said he was leaving it to the jury to decide whether to condemn the defendants to death.

Earlier, the defense had suggested that the four white defendants were being made whipping boys for "pent-up emotions and that we have a race situation here is a factor in this case."

Hopkins, shortly before the case was due to go to the jury, asked the panel what would happen if four Negroes had taken a single white girl at gunpoint and raped her seven times.

"If you're going to convict on facts in one case you've got to convict on facts in another," he added.

Hopkins continued, "I'm sorry the defense counsel saw fit to bring anything in, even by inuendo, about the difference in the races. I'm sorry they brought the race question into it. I don't think it's right."

The state had charged that the Negro coed victim would not be alive today if she had not submitted to the four white defendants.

In its summation after the testimony ended, the state moved strongly in an effort to counteract the defense position that the girl offered no resistance during a mass attack last May 2, and thus in effect gave her consent.

Defense Atty. Harry L. Michaels opened the summation for his own client, Patrick (Gene) Scarborough, 20. He also spoke for the other three white youths, Willion Collinsworth, 23, David E. Beagles, 18, and Ollie Stoutamire, 16.

"There is no testimony from this witness stand that Scarborough forced his way onto her in an act of sexual intercourse," Michaels told the jury.

"There has not been one iota of testimony anywhere that—the victim—was tied or bound or gagged.

"There is no testimony from this witness stand to bear out the material allegations of this indictment."

The indictment charges that the girl was attacked against her will and consent.

Replying for the state, Asst. State Atty. Harry Morrison, told the jury "The victim talked these defendants into halfway thinking she had forgiven them that act in order to save her life.

"She wanted to get out of that situation. There wasn't the slightest chance on the face of the earth for her to escape there and get away in those thick woods.

"And if she hadn't convinced them in the way she did, this jury knows she would have been out there yet.'

All the youths are on trial for their life. Collinsworth is pleading insanity, the only one to do so.

No Sunday Papers Published This Week In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)— St. Louisans are going to be without a Sunday morning newspaper this weekend except for the fortunate few able to obtain issues of out-of-town dailies.

Both the evening and Sunday Post-Dispatch and the morning Globe-Democrat are out of publication because of a strike of the stereotyper's union against the Post.

The union is picketing the two Pulitzer Publishing Co. buildings and, as the Globe is printed under contract by the Post, both big dailies are quiet.

Further negotiations with a federal conciliator present have been set for Monday.

St. Louisans interested in the news get it from radio or television stations and buy out of town papers if they can get them. A spokesman at one of the biggest newsstands in the city said papers from other cities, principally New York and Chicago "go like hotcakes. We're sold out minutes after they come in. At this rate you could bootleg 'em."

The Associated Press bureau is swamped with phone calls from people inquiring about such divergent subjects as "Who won the Belmont?" and "What's happening at Geneva?"

The stereotypers went out when negotiations broke down in a dispute about the handling of metal plates which go under pictures.

A 99-day American Newspaper Guild strike recently ended at the Globe-Democrat. The paper published only a few days before the second strike again closed it down.

GUESTS GET SURPRISED

SCARBOROUGH, Maine (AP)— Forty-two friends gathered Friday night to give Mrs. Ronald P. Bugenske a surprise shower. But the guest of honor never showed up.

Mrs. Bugenske was giving birth to twin girls at a hospital in Biddeford—a month ahead of schedule.

Also due for a surprise is the father, a coastguardman, who is on ice patrol in the North Atlantic and won't be home until June 25.

De Valera, Power In Irish Politics, Seeks Presidency

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Eamon de Valera, 77 and three-fourths blind, is about to step quietly into the shade in Irish political life.

The "long fellow," who has served or ruled Ireland for 50 of his years, leaves the active post of prime minister by way of a presidential election Wednesday. As president he will be called upon to do almost nothing except sign state papers and make ceremonial appearances.

Irishmen can be found who will bet on anything—except that De Valera will lose. Odds on such a bet would be about 1,000 to 1.

Sean MacEoin has the hopeless job of running against the man who has as much right to be called the father of his country as any man ever had.

There are 1,700,000 voters in Ireland and even Sean MacEoin's Fine Gael party—unofficially, of course—expects De Valera to get far more than half the votes.

President Sean T. O'Kelly, 76, cannot by law run for another seven-year term. One of O'Kelly's last official acts was to go to the United States on a state visit last spring.

De Valera's successor, to be named by his Fianna Fail party, is fairly certain to be Sean Lemass, the vice premier.

The presidential campaign has been going on for nearly three months but it has been the quietest Ireland ever had.

Both De Valera and 67-year-old MacEoin were revolutionists against British rule. They are called Ireland's two greatest living patriots. Both were condemned to die by the British. Once close friends, they turned against each other.

Big 4 Talks Deadlocked, May Wind Up This Week

Both Soviet, West In Tight Corner

GENEVA (AP) — The crisis-ridden four power foreign ministers conference may wind up this week. Western officials saw only a slender chance that some Berlin agreement might be salvaged from the talks.

The British camp professed more hope than the United States and French delegations that something can yet be pulled out of the bag. The Soviet line remained unchanged — that there remained a prospect of agreement on Moscow's terms.

In the last few days the Western powers and the Soviet Union made slight pullbacks which kept the negotiations barely alive. Now all four governments have a weekend to reflect on what a complete failure would mean. They may find a way of ending the talks under a recess arrangement.

There has been no rush by either side to break off the talks completely. The implications of the Berlin issue show that both the Western powers and the Soviet Union are in a tight corner.

If the conference finally collapses, the Western powers expect a greatly amplified Soviet propaganda campaign to take the Berlin and German problems to a summit meeting regardless of the disagreements uncovered by the foreign ministers.

U.S. officials stressed that the West would turn down Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's bid for top-level talks unless the Soviets come through with proposals preserving Western rights in Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France firmly agreed that the Soviets' one-year deadline on Allied rights in West Berlin never can be accepted.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko remained in Geneva to study possible ways out of the diplomatic maze. There was no plan for them to meet.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd returned to their capitals for consultations.

Lloyd got off an airplane in London Friday night urging patience. He arranged weekend talks with

Russian Accuses West Of Dragging Out Geneva Talks

MOSCOW (AP)—Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov, one of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's closest aides, accused the West Saturday of "using every means to drag out the Geneva talks."

He spoke at a rally for visiting East German officials in Kiev, Tass reported, at about the same time Khrushchev was flying back to Moscow from Riga. The Premier spent five days entertaining the East Germans in the Latvian capital.

Kozlov was quoted by the official Soviet news agency as saying:

"It is apparent that the ruling circles of the Western powers wish to continue the unreasonable, totally bankrupt policy of a position of strength and want to avoid a decision on urgent internrational questions.

"But it is completely apparent that these calculations will be frustrated."

Youth Tells Police He Clubbed Mother With His Tomahawk

CHICAGO (AP) — A mild-mannered honor student seized by state troopers 115 miles west of here said Saturday, according to police, that he clubbed his mother with a tomahawk in her Chicago apartment Friday.

The bludgeoned body of Mrs. Geraldine Nesius, 33, was found in her Northwest Side apartment Friday evening.

Sheriff J. H. Hamilton of Whiteside County said the 14-year-old boy, David, told him the attack followed an argument with his mother over a wrist watch. The row started before his stepfather, Philip, 29, left home for work at 7:30 a.m.

The woman's head had been bashed in by a 3½-pound tomahawk head, a stocking was knotted around her throat and her housecoat was pulled up around her shoulders. The room showed signs of struggle. Her underclothing was near the body.

The body was found by Nesius when he returned home from work. A search was started for David, her son by a previous marriage, when he failed to appear for the evening meal.

Coroner Walter McCarron said an examination established that death was caused by strangulation. He declined to say whether the examination had indicated whether she was sexually molested.

Mrs. Nesius' apartment had been ransacked and a metal box, containing some money, had been pried open and emptied.

David was spotted by two state troopers Saturday walking south on Illinois Highway 80 near Savanna in northwestern Illinois. He bolted into the woods and the troopers followed. He tried to punch one of them, but then calmed down and was taken to Sheriff Hamilton's office.

Hamilton said the youth told him he argued with his mother about a wrist watch, hit her with a tomahawk "and then blacked out and I don't know what happened."

Nesius told police earlier that his wife had argued with David for making too much noise before it was time for her to awaken.

Nesius described David as a quiet, cooperative youth who

Steel Negotiators Face Tangled Situation Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel wage negotiators were scattered for the weekend Saturday without making clear whether they will be facing each other or blank walls when they sit down again Tuesday.

This was the tangled situation The industry said its four-man negotiating team, representing 12 top steel companies, will gather in one room of the Hotel Roosevelt at 2 p.m. to meet a steel union team.

The union said it will have 12 committees "waiting hopefully" in 12 other rooms at 2 p.m. to negotiate with the 12 companies individually.

An industry spokesman said Friday the companies will not send anybody to the 12 individual sessions.

The union has not said positively it will not have its four-man team to meet the industrywide team.

It has said, in fact, it was willing to do so but indicated that this was on condition the industry agrees to the individual company bargaining session also.

Negotiations opened May 5 and have been conducted on the four-man team basis.

The nation faces a strike that would cut its steel production 90 per cent unless agreement is reached on a new wage contract by June 30 when the present three-year pact expires — little more than two weeks hence.

The industry has called for a one-year freeze on wages and benefits which it says would help halt inflation.

The union has asked for a substantial but unspecified wage increase and a reduction in working hours. It contends the industry could provide them without raising steel prices or spurring inflation. Present wages average $3.03 an hour.

TRUCKER CHARGED WITH HOMICIDE IN TRAFFIC FATALITY

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP) — The driver of a transport truck involved in a head-on collision which killed one man and injured his wife and two children has been charged with reckless homicide.

Earl W. Downs, 33, of Greentown, Ind., was driver of a trailer truck which Friday night collided with a car driven by Louis E. Einhorn, 32, of Wheeler, Ill. Einhorn died in the crash.

Downs was charged after an inquest Saturday.

His wife, Rosella, 28, and children, Anthony, 5, and Rebekah, 2, are in critical condition.

The collision occurred on U. S. Route 40, four miles east of Effingham.

Edward Germain Reported Missing

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)— Edward B. Germain, 68-year-old financier and onetime assistant secretary of the Navy was reported missing Saturday.

Germain, former president of the Dunlop Tire & Rubber Co., has not been seen since Thursday night when he attended a dinner in honor of the president of the Bank of New York City, Donald Elliman of New York City.

He was last seen walking toward his automobile in the parking lot of the Buffalo Club, presumably to return to his summer home at Bay Beach, Ont. His automobile also is missing.

Buffalo police issued a missing persons report and asked Ontario provincial police for help.

Friends and relatives could not explain his absence.

Germain is a director of the Marine Midland Corp. and a member of the executive board of the Marine Trust Co. of western New York. He was assistant secretary of the Navy under Frank Knox during World War II and president of Dunlop from 1922 to 1951.

Monkeys To Pioneer Man's Safe Return From Space Trip

WALLOPS, ISLAND, Va. (AP)— Monkeys soon are going to pioneer man's safe return from trips into space, officials said Saturday.

They will be rocketed 100 miles up inside the full-sized capsules being developed as man's home while in space. Then the capsules will parachute down for recovery at sea, or on land.

The goal is to prove out absolutely reliable methods for recovering the capsule and its human or animal occupant—everytime. It is one more step advancing the day of man in space.

This is one project at America's third and newest space-port here at Wallops Island, the others being Cape Canaveral, Fla., and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

Wallops is an isolated strip of sand on the ocean side of the toe of the Deleware - Maryland - Virginia Peninsula forming Chesapeake Bay.

Operated now by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, it will start putting scientific rockets into orbit late this year.

Project officials said rhesus monkeys and a chimpanzee will zoom up beginning late in July or in August in rockets dubbed Little Joes. These are combinations of Sergeant and Recruit rockets, developing about 250,000 pounds of thrust.

Rhesus monkeys will ride up 10 to 100 miles high, landing 10 to 150 miles out at sea for recovery by picket ships and perhaps helicopters.

A chimpanzee in one capsule will test a special rocket escape mechanism, the officials added.

On May 28, the monkeys Able and Baker rode 300 miles into space on a 1,700-mile-long trip in the nose cone of a rocket. But their compartment was just big enough to hold them, not like the man-sized compartments in which other monkeys will ride in the projected tests.

Children Admit Setting Fire To Sleeping Parents

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Resentful of "nagging all the time," two children admitted Saturday they set fire to their sleeping parents to "get rid of them so we could do the things we want."

The murder plot was uncovered by arson squad officers investigating the fire in which the parents were critically burned by flaming gasoline.

Officers said Doreen Baker, 15, and her brother Bruce, 12, admitted throwing gasoline on their parents as they slept early Friday. The children said their parents were "too strict."

Arson squad detectives suspected the blaze was deliberately set and said the children admitted the plot under questioning.

The father, Sterling Baker, 62, a World War I veteran retired on pension, suffered burns over more than half his body. His wife, 44, was burned almost as severely.

The children told police they planned the slaying for more than a week. At first, they said they were going to hit their parents over the head with a hammer but discarded that plan as too risky.

The children were held at County Juvenile Home pending a Probate Court appearance Monday.

Youngest And Oldest Ministers At Conference

By RICHARD HACKMAN

"I would recite my original poems at dinner meetings one day and the next I'd canvass the town for Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society funds."

So spoke John L. Hardesty, right, oldest retired member of the Illinois Conference in attendance at its 136th annual meeting at MacMurray College this week.

Rev. Hardesty was born in Elkhart, Ill., 90 years ago this month. The grandson of a Methodist minister, he attended Illinois Normal University a short time and then became editor, part owner, and business manager of the weekly Rantoul Press.

Southern Illinois Circuit

"I was called to the ministry a few years later," said Hardesty. "My first charge was a circuit in the Southern Illinois Conference and consisted of four country churches. I was paid less than $500 a year for this but I received a goodly portion of extra salary in the form of chickens and hams."

"I was sort of a jack of all trades. Several times, while serving a circuit near Patoka, Ill., I published the weekly newspaper in the absence of the editor."

A few years later Rev. Hardesty was urged by the Bishop to travel for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society. This consisted of working for the welfare of orphaned children in homes, orphanages, and courts.

He is still a voting retired member of the Conference and hasn't missed a Conference session for 40 years.

Youngest Minister

Contrasting Rev. Hardesty is Rev. Howard Redding of Chicago, one of the youngest men ordained Deacon at this year's Conference. Rev. Redding, just turned 24, is Educational Assistant at the Morgan Park Methodist church in South Chicago, and will be a sophomore at Garrett Biblical Institute next year.

A sociology major, he married during his senior year at Illinois Wesleyan University and is now the father of a four month old son. He was very active in student religious activities both at high school and college, being a district MYF president, two years Illinois Conference MYF president, and chairman of the Religious Activities Commission at Wesleyan. Howard had the distinction of being the youth chairman of the first North Central Jurisdiction Officer Training Workshop held at MacMurray a few years ago.

Influenced By Pastor

"Why did I choose the ministry? Well, I was greatly influenced by my home church pastor, and experiences I had at youth camp. It just seemed to grow on me as being the way I should use my life—for God."

"I feel that one of the most rewarding experiences I can have is to help people, especially youth. But though I look forward to all my future experiences as a minister, I feel that my primary aim will always be to win people to God."

Two men, widely separated in years, but both sincerely dedicated to their church and God.

ERROR HELPS SHOW

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the oddest bits of recent show dancing occurs in the musical "Once Upon a Mattress." It reportedly is the result of a typographical error in the typed instructions.

The dance, called "The Spanish Panic," requires the frantic performers to take three steps with the right foot for every step by the left. Actually, alternate steps were intended. After seeing the hilarious results of the mistake, the producers made the off-beat item part of the show.

CHICAGO (AP) — Despite the smallest supply for a week since March, butcher hog prices declined on four of the five trading days and finished the week at their lowest average in more than three months.

The top price of $17.00 on Friday was the lowest peak since April 22 when it hit $16.90. It marked the sharpest setback in 10 weeks.

Buyers said pork slaughter recently had been curtailed by a number of packers because of slow pork movement in hot weather meat trade. However, pork loins were reported at their highest prices on wholesale markets since November, up $5 to $6 a hundredweight.

Barrow and gilts were 50 cents to $1 lower for the week in the stockyards with most of the decline on weights over 240 lbs. Sows were 75 cents to $1 lower.

The market for slaughter steers was weak to lower for the ninth consecutive week as the percentage of choice grade on sale continued to increase. Prime grade continued seasonally scarce but it and high choice kinds led the price setback of 50 cents to $1. Average choice grade was weak to 50 cents lower.

In the sheep market old crop shorn lambs and yearlings were $1.00-1.50 lower while spring lambs and ewes held steady.

Old crop lambs and yearlings comprised about 50 per cent of the supply which was considerably larger than the previous week but still relatively small.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated again this week, continuing its "correction" of recent historic highs.

It was the second straight weekly decline. The drop was less than half the amount of last week's setback, which was the sharpest weekly drop in a year and a half.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.10 to $223.70. The record high, reached May 29, is $230.30.

Volume, though still comparatively low, expanded to 15,468,114 shares compared with 14,785,757 the week before.

Among all 1,410 stocks traded, losers outnumbered gainers by 722 to 542.

The worst damage to prices was done on Monday when Wall Street experienced the worst shakeout in half a year. President Eisenhower's official request that Congress scrap the interest rate ceiling on government bonds was deemed the "excuse" the market had been looking for.

U.S. government bonds closed higher for the week but it was a very uneasy advance on extremely light volume. Corporate securities continued to drift downward.

The corporate market ended the week lower on balance. Rails were off sharply and investment quality issues declined. Utilities closed unchanged. Foreign dollar bonds advanced and so did industrials, spurred by acrobatic performances by some industrial convertibles.

Trading increased to $30,874,200 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $27,551,000 the previous week and $27,753,500 for the corresponding week in 1958.

WEEKS GRAINS SCORE GOOD GAINS

CHICAGO (AP) — The government's June wheat crop report this week was described by most grain futures traders as a dud insofar as a market influence was concerned but that grain and almost all others scored good gains on the Board of Trade.

Oats and rye led the advances with gains running well over two cents a bushel in most deliveries. The 1959 crop wheat contracts made small but almost daily advances which added up to more than a cent. Soybeans added mostly small fractions and corn was virtually stationary except for July which moved up about a cent.

The government wheat crop estimate, released on Wednesday, was viewed by a few traders at the time as both mildly bullish and bearish. Some called it bullish because it predicted a winter and spring wheat crop yield of about 300 million bushels less than the record high 1958 production.

Others said it was bearish because the figures were somewhat higher than had been expected.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅜-1¾ cents a bushel higher than a week ago for the 1959 crop months, July $1.81½-⅜, and the 1960 crop months 1⅛-1¼ lower; corn ⅜ higher to ⅛ lower, July $1.26¼-⅜; oats 1-2⅞ cents higher, July new type contract 66 cents; rye 2⅜-2¾ higher, July $1.22¾; soybeans unchanged to ⅜ higher, July $2.24⅞-¾.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP)—Estimated livestock receipts for Monday are 11,000 hogs, 20,000 cattle and 1,500 sheep.

State Legislature

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Fair employment practices legislation keeps center stage Monday in the Illinois General Assembly where a Chicago Democrat threatens to filibuster in the House until the Senate acts on FEPC.

Demand FEPC

Rep. Corneal Davis said Friday he would demand that Senate bills be read in full in the House until the Senate, traditionally unfriendly to FEPC, votes on House-approved measures.

The legislation slipped out of a Senate committee last week to the president's desk but cannot come to a passage vote unless the Senators elect to take it up.

Gov. Stratton is on hand to see the fate of his and other of his endorsements in the General Assembly. Stratton is slated to leave Springfield Saturday for a Russian tour.

Time Running Out

This week and about eight legislative days thereafter remain for the lawmakers to clean up items in the Stratton program. The new school-aid formula, the half cent sales tax increase, the liquor tax hike and the sales tax broadening bills are hanging.

So are government reorganization, creation of a revenue article proposal to abolish the personal property tax, and bond issue referenda to take care of university and mental hospital building needs.

300 HOUSE BILLS

Even if a Davis filibuster should tie the House's hands on Senate bills, the lower chamber would be free to go full speed on approximately 300 House bills piled before it.

Among these are the sales tax broadening bills. They include a bill to apply the sales and use taxes to service occupations presently exempted. This was amended last week to extend exemptions for materials purchased for newspaper producers and vendors.

High In Importance

High in importance are bills to reduce the number of justices of the peace and put them on salary instead of fee payment. The bills are milder than the series on the same subject which the Senate turned down. The House bills have been trimmed in an effort to meet Senate objections.

One of the decisions soon to be faced by Senators is whether to allow Southern Illinois University to grant engineering degrees.

In the Senate Revenue Committee, the biggest issues are House bills to increase corporation franchise taxes 10-fold and to freeze property tax assessments at 55 per cent of true value.

Miss Talley Is Bride In Home Wedding June 12

CARROLLTON — Miss Norma Jean Talley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman M. Talley of Carrollton became the bride of Robert Lee Rosenthal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amiel Rosenthal of Fieldon Friday, June 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of the bride's parents west of Carrollton.

The Rev. Robert Pitsch, pastor of the Carrollton Methodist church, read the double ring ceremony as the couple stood before a mantel lighted by pale blue tapers in candelabra which were flanked by palms with a large basket of cut flowers atop the mantel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, appeared in a gown of Chantilly lace and net over white satin, featuring a bouffant skirt worn over hoops fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her fingertip veil was secured to a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. Her bouquet was of white carnations arranged on a white Bible.

The bride's sister, Mrs. William Huff of Greenfield, served as bridesmaid and appeared in a ballerina length gown of yellow lace over taffeta featuring a tiered skirt. Her matching headband was of yellow lace petals and she carried a colonial bouquet of purple asters. William Huff of Greenfield, brother-in-law of the bride was best man.

A reception for the bridal party and their guests was held at the home immediately following the ceremonies.

The bride, a 1951 alumna of the Carrollton Community Unit high school, is employed as bookkeeper at the Illinois Valley Supply company in Carrollton.

SAW FLYING SAUCERS 2,000 YEARS AGO

ROME (AP)—Even the Romans of 2,000 years ago saw flying saucers. But they likened them to flying shields.

This is probably the meaning of a passage in a work by Julius Obsequiens, a fourth century Latin poet, says Knobby Railsback, a classics scholar from Moline, Ill., who is studying in Rome.

He says he came across this sentence in one of Obsequiens' writings referring to a phenomenon reported observed near Rome in 100 B.C.

Mulberry Grove Business District Swept By Fire

MULBERRY GROVE, Ill. (AP)—The center of one side of Mulberry Grove's main street was burned out Saturday by a wind-whipped fire. Efforts to fight the blaze were complicated by an old pump which couldn't furnish water fast enough.

Mulberry Grove Fire Chief Norman Mayfield estimated damage would amount to between $120,000 and $150,000.

Four buildings, including the biggest one in town, a three-story structure, were ravaged by the blaze.

No one was reported injured in the battle against the fire. Some 75 volunteer firemen fought it and, according to witnesses, "took plenty of big chances" but dodged the flames and falling debris.

Every time the fire would be subdued, firemen would run out of water and it would leap up again. The town's water supply comes from a tower fed by wells. The pump which forced the water up is an old one and couldn't work fast enough to keep the tower filled.

A new pump recently purchased had not been installed.

But the fire was brought under control about four hours after it started.

The blaze started on the first floor of the three-story building in Schrump's locker plant. Locker plant workers were rendering lard at the time.

Above the locker plant was one floor occupied by the Masonic Lodge's banquet hall and above that a floor taken up by the lodge's club room. There was also a barbershop on the first floor. The building's entire interior was burned out.

The other ruined buildings were two grocery stores and an empty store. The nearby city office was damaged by smoke and water.

Firemen from Greenville, Vandalia and Smithboro aided the Mulberry Grove volunteers.

Mulberry Grove, a community of 700, is in Bond County about 45 miles east of St. Louis.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS PUSH COMPROMISE LABOF BILL TO VOTE

This would require by law that all union constitutions spell out rules of order, disciplinary provisions, the right of members to seek redress, the right to vote on dues changes and elections, and the right of members to voice opinions on all matters "directly or indirectly" affecting their union.

Another major provision of Roosevelt's bill was taken in its entirety from New York State law prescribing rules for financial reporting and fiduciary obligations of union officials.

Violations, however, would be misdeameanors rather than felonies, and would be punishable by no more than a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

His bill also includes some amendments to Taft - Hartley which Roosevelt said are noncontroversial. These include repeal of the non-Communist oath requirement.

MOVE TO AMEND TAX EXTENSION BILL

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) has written Byrd asking hearings on these proposals. Byrd said such a decision would have to be made by the full committee and it could not be taken up until the week of June 22 because the committee has other business scheduled.

The extension bill must become law by June 30 or three billion dollars worth of annual revenue from the corporation tax and major excise levies will be lost. The excises involved cover cigarettes, liquor, beer, wine, autos and auto parts.

The loophole amendments would cut down the 27½ per cent oil and gas depletion allowance for big oil companies, set up a withholding system for dividend and interest income, repeal the dividend credit on stock income enacted in 1954, and eliminate many tax deductible expenses on entertainment and travel.

STATE ASKS JURY REJECT RACIAL BIAS, CONVICT 4 YOUTHS

No white man, as far as Florida records reveal, has ever been executed for the rape of a Negro. But a finding of guilty without a recommendation of mercy by the male white jury would mean a death sentence for the four.

Trial began Wednesday in the second-floor circuit court room of Judge W. May Walker in the Leon County Courthouse. It has drawn a capacity crowd of more than 300 spectators daily with Negroes in the balcony and whites downstairs.

Collinsworth, who had shown hardly a flicker of emotion during three previous days in court, broke down and wept Saturday as relatives and his wife sketched in his bleak childhood and a manhood clouded by stormy, raging drink-induced blackouts.

The defendants' frail wife, Pearlie, 23, herself gave way to tears repeatedly while testifying that her husband wasn't responsible for his actions the night the Negro girl was raped.

"He was very well on his way to being dead drunk," she said of her last sight of him a few hours before the rape occurred.

She testified Collinsworth when not drinking was a good husband, a good father to their two small children, a steady worker and a good provider.

On the night of May 1, the woman continued, Collinsworth came home tired after a week of work as a telephone company lineman, and for that reason she yielded to his pleas for money to buy a bottle of whisky.

Big 4 Talks Deadlocked, May End This Week

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan —the Western leader most disposed to go to the summit.

Monday morning Lloyd will report to the British Cabinet. He will fly back for the private afternoon session of the four ministers in Couve de Murville's Geneva residence.

Here are some of the signs that the foreign ministers will either recess their talks or break them off completely before next weekend

In the Western view Monday and Tuesday are the critical days. If no avenue of East-West understanding on Berlin opens up then Western diplomats feel it might be better to stop arguing, at least for a while.

Herter is reported to have ordered his plane to be here by the end of the week to take him back to Washington.

Couve de Murville is scheduled to accompany President Charles de Gaulle on an official visit to Italy the week of June 21.

The four ministers might decide to recess rather than break off their talks with the understanding that they would reassemble next month or later in the summer. They could refer their unresolved problems to deputies during the recess.

Such an arrangement would delay a showdown on Berlin. A complete conference breakdown, on the other hand, would raise again the specter of a new blockade of U.S., British and French garrisons in West Berlin. And beyond that is the risk of an armed clash.

The Western powers face this dilemma They are determined to retain unimpaired their war-won rights in West Berlin and to support the freedom of the 2,200,000 West Berliners.

Yet the United States, Britain and France cannot prevent the Soviet Union from concluding a separate peace treaty with East Germany, giving the East German Communists control over Allied lifelines.

The Soviets have their own dilemma. If they push too far, and a blockade actually develops, they might find the Western powers frustrating their move with an airlift, as happened in 1948-49 or forcing a way through East Germany to West Berlin.

GREENE YOUTH SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

A Greene County youth was seriously injured and four other persons hospitalized briefly Friday as the result of a truck-car collision near Drake, Ill., around noon Friday. Reported in serious condition at Passavant Hospital was Ronald Reveal, 19-year-old White Hall resident.

According to reports the accident occurred as the car in which Reveal was riding collided with a truck driven by Howard Seeley of Hillview as the truck attempted to turn into a field. Also riding in the car with Reveal was Terry Frye of Roodhouse.

Seeley and his two children, Danny, 9, and Debbie, 4, all occupants of the 1950 Chevrolet truck were thrown from the vehicle by the impact of the collision. Troopers said the truck skidded down the highway for some distance.

All persons involved were taken to the White Hall Hospital for emergency treatment. Seeley was reported to have suffered bruises as did his small daughter, Debbie, both of whom were released after treatment.

Danny Seeley, 9, remained as a patient at the hospital suffering from two fractured arms. One arm had been fractured in an earlier mishap and was in the process of healing at the time of the collision Friday.

Terry Frye, grandson of Mrs. Nona Frye of Roodhouse, was dismissed after receiving treatment for facial lacerations and bruises. Reveal was rushed on to Passavant Hospital where he was reported to have a fractured right arm and wrist and multiple lacerations. He underwent surgery last night at the hospital.

Casper Leads Hogan By 3 Strokes In Open

MAMARONECK, N. Y. (AP)—Bill Casper shot into a three-stroke lead over Ben Hogan Saturday at the three-quarter point of the rain-delayed U.S. Open Golf Championship. He fired a third round 69 for a score of 208.

A drenching thunderstorm twice delayed play Saturday morning and finally forced postponement of the fourth round until Sunday.

Hogan, the man they said was through, remained in powerful contention for a record fifth Open victory by shooting a pin-pointed 71 for 211.

In a drama-packed day before a crowd estimated at 20,000, Sam Snead, who never has won the Open, stormed back into the picture. He fired a three-under-par 67 which placed him in a tie for third place at 212 with Arnold Palmer, 1958 Masters champion, and bespectacled Bob Rosburg, who matched Snead's 67, best score of the tournament.

Par for the 6,873-yard Winged Foot course is 35-35—70.

Casper, paunchy, 27-year-old touring pro from Apple Valley, had his eye on the back of the cups. He rang in putts from 8 to 15 feet as if they were "gimmes" a spectacular round of 36-33—69.

Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla., former Masters champion, made a strong run for the lead but he went 5-6-5 on the par 4-4 4 finishing holes to take a 72 for 213. This placed him in a tie with Mike Souchak, the ex-Duke footballer, and Claude Harmon, the Winged Foot's host professional.

Souchak took bogeys on the final two holes for a 72. Harmon shot a steady 70.

Young Gary Player of South Africa, bidding to become the first foreigner in 39 years to win the event, couldn't control his driver and wound up with a 76 for 216 which apparently put him out of contention.

Ernie Vossler, from Midland, Tex., remained within hollering distance of the lead with a 72 for 214. He is only six strokes back of the lead.

Shortly after Casper finished, the course was hit by a lashing electrical storm which drenched the greens. A dozen or so players—including champion Tommy Bolt—were caught in the downpour.

Play was suspended a third time.

Kansas Sweeps First NCAA Track Title

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Kansas' Big Eight champions swept to their first team title and two meet records were shattered, another tied, in the 38th NCAA track meet Saturday. One performance which bettered a world mark, and one which matched a world record were disallowed because of an aiding wind.

The closing event, the 220-yard low hurdles, brought the most spectacular performance, a 22.5-second victory by Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan, the meet's only double winner.

However, this clocking which would have been a new world mark around a full curve, was disallowed because of a 5.248-mile-per-hour wind.

Another brilliant effort, a 9.3-second victory by Kansas's Charlie Tidwell in the 100-yard dash which matched the world and meet record for the distance, was cancelled because of a 10½-mile-an-hour wind.

New meet records were fashioned in the 400-meter hurdles and hammer throw, and a meet mark was tied in the 120-yard high hurdles, won by Hayes Jones in 13.6.

Kansas, rolling up 73 points, captured three firsts, but scored in nine events as the Jayhawks replaced ineligible Southern California as team champion.

Second behind Kansas was San Jose State with 48 1-10 points, 18 of them coming when Ray Norton and Bob Poynter finished one-two in the 220-yard dash.

Houston, capturing first in the 3,000-meter steeplechase and hop-step-and-jump was third with 38, followed by Oklahoma with 31, Oklahoma State with 22 1-10, Boston University with 20, and Eastern Michigan, also with 20, all scored by Jones.

Jones, the meet's top scorer with 20 points, proved a champion killer, dethroning Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem in the high hurdles and Tidwell in the low hurdles.

Dick Howard of the University of New Mexico set a meet 400-meter hurdles record which occurred at the start of the meet and was not affected by the wind.

Howard, finishing three yards ahead of Clif Cushman of Kansas, was clocked in 50.6 seconds.

That bettered the former mark of 51.0 set by Notre Dame's Aubrey Lewis in 1956.

Another record-breaking champion was Boston University's John Lawlor, whose qualifying hammer throw of 207 feet 5 inches Friday stood up as a new meet mark in Saturday's finals.

George Kerr of Illinois won the 880 yard run. His time was 1:47.8.

Paul Foreman, another member of the Illini squad, finished fourth in the hop, step and jump, with 46-8¼. He tied for fourth in the broad jump with John Buckley of Villanova, with 24-5.

Ron Mitchell of Illinois leaped into a four-way tie for sixth in the high jump at 6-3½.

Ward Miller of the Illini ran the 100 in :09.8 plus but finished sixth.

Silver Spoon In Easy Victory

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Silver Spoon, the lone filly in the field, scored an easy victory in the $25,700 Cinema Handicap Saturday as the heavily backed Tomy Lee failed to revert to his winning Kentucky Derby form.

Jockey Bill Boland ushered the queen of the C. V. Whitney stables across the finish line by three or more lengths before a crowd estimated at 51,000 at Hollywood Park.

The pace-setting Friar Roach was second and Civic Pride third.

Fred Turner Jr.'s Tomy Lee finished sixth in the field of eight 3-year-olds in the mile and one-eighth attraction.

Silver Spoon, who ran fifth to Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby, paid $6.40, 4.20 and 4.00.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The story of the present baseball administration will be that of the worst in the history of the organized game dating back to 1876.

The game is sick and now Ford C. Frick, the one-time radio announcer who became commissioner, approves a second All-Star Game to be played in Los Angeles, Aug. 3, just 27 days after the first in Pittsburgh, July 7.

Long established minor leagues have either been wrecked or torn asunder by the promiscuous switching of major league franchises, two of which left the Eastern seaboard sans National League baseball from Boston to Philadelphia and the 16 million people of the New York metropolitan area without the professional game for half the season.

As the switching of big league clubs into their territory changed the maps of the American Association and Pacific Coast Leagues, practically all of the smaller circuits were ruined by big league games liberally telecast into their territory. Night baseball has been expanded to such an extent that youngsters who are the fans of tomorrow can see their heroes only on Sunday.

• • •

With the playing of a second edition, the All-Star Game, originated by Arch Ward, the Chicago sports editor in 1933, loses its purpose. The emphasis is taken off it. If there are to be two, why not three or four, or one between pick-up teams on every open date?

Having approved everything else harmful to baseball, to be consistent there is nothing else for Frick to do but put the World Series on the road. The rubber stamp czar already has approved a third major league which would leave the World Series as anticlimactic as the final game of a Shaughnessy play-off in the minors.

The second All-Star Game, stirred up by Robin Roberts, leader of the money-hungry players and readily seconded by grasping owners, indicates that now the noble athletes have it too good. The idea is to swell the pension fund, you see, with the owners salting away 40 per cent of the so-called major leagues' central fund.

For 77 years, the combatants were depicted as downtrodden slaves. Then in 1953 and at long last, Allie Reynolds and Ralph Kiner, league player representatives, engaged J. Norman Lewis, who had been the law partner of Leo Bondy when the latter was vice-president and treasurer of the New York Giants.

• • •

In five years, during which he was paid $75,000, Lewis established the pension plan netting $2 million a year, or $10 million. He saw the ballplayer's pension increased from a maximum of $100 a month to $550. He had the minimum salary raised from $5,000 a year to $7,000. He saw that players traveling by plane had $50,000 in life insurance. He engineered fringe deals too numerous to mention, starting with family hospitalization and disability benefits.

But when the players who were hungry had their bellies full, they went along with the owners who wanted to dump Lewis, the man who did more for them in five years than Ford Frick and the previous commissioners did in 39.

With J. Norman Lewis out, the ballplayers are now on their own. Having already operated on the All-Star Game, they now are ready to tackle the World Series.

That isn't bringing in nearly enough swag.

St. Louis Hawks Will Engage Syracuse In JHS Bowl October 14

Two of pro basketball's top teams — the Syracuse Nationals and the St. Louis Hawks will meet in a regularly-scheduled pre-season game on Wednesday night, October 14, at the Jacksonville High School gym. The game will be sponsored by the Jacksonville Knights of Columbus.

The Hawks, Western Division champions for the past three years, and world champions two years ago, are favored to repeat in the West again this year. Led by the incomparable Bob Pettit, the game's greatest all-around player, the Hawks have a potent team that could rank with the greatest in professional court history.

In addition to Pettit, the former 6-9 LSUU star, the Hawks have Cliff Hagan, ex-Kentucky ace; team captain, Charley (Chuck) Share, 6-11 center; Hub Reed, Oklahoma City All-American of two yaers ago, who is 6-9½; Dave Gambee, the club's top draft choice last year but who sat out this season with an injury; Clude Lovellette, the former Kansas great, who is rated as the best shot in the game; Slater Martin, 10 year veteran considered one of the top small men in basketball history and the only player in the league under six feet; Jack McMahon, former St. John's U. ace who will be starting his 8th season; Al Ferrari, former Michigan State star, and Sihugo Green, all-time Duquesne hero who was selected ahead of Bill Russell in the NBA draft three years ago.

Newcomers to the Hawks will be Al Selden, St. John's All American of last year; Cal Ramsey, NYU flash who is rated as that school's greatest performer and Hank Stein, Xavier's first All-American nominee. These players played college ball last year.

With Syracuse, the best scoring team in the league the last half of the season, will be Adolph (Dolph) Schayes, the proleague's all time scoring ace who has tallied over 13,000 points; George Yardley, who set a new record of more than 2000 markers in a season two years ago only to see it broken by Pettit last year; Red Kerr, Illinois' great center of recent years; Larry Costello, two time Niagra U. All-American; Togo Palazzi, Holy Cross record holder; Bob Hopkins, who scored more than 3800 points in four years in college at Grambling, La. and Al Bianchi, a four year veteran guard from Bowling Green U.

Connie Dierking, a 6-9½ pivotman from Cincinnati, will be up front while a newcomer to the National roster will be Syracuse U. All-East star, Jon Cincebox (Cincy-bo).

The top rookie for the Nationals will be the much-heralded [illegible] Farnett, an All-American selection from Tennessee State college, the top small college team in the country the past three years. Barnett, a 6-3 195 pound guard, was Syracuse's top pick this year.

The Nationals are coached by Paul Seymour, 12-year pro veteran who first entered the league at the tender age of 19. He has been coach of the Nationals for the past three years.

Easy Ed Macauley, the former St. Louis U. All-American, heads the Hawks, having signed a three-year contract at the end of last season. Macauley is the second top scorer in pro basketball history.

The game will be played in regulation 12-minute quarters, and NBA officials will be assigned to work the game by league president, Maurice Podoloff.

Special 24-second clocks will be set up for the game, utilizing the same clocks used in the regular league contests.

Tickets for the game will go on sale about Sept. 1.

Arcaro Feeling Better Following Racing Accident

NEW YORK (AP)—"I never ate so much mud in my life," said jockey Eddie Arcaro Saturday night as he lay in a hospital bed two hours after being thrown from his horse in the Belmont Stakes.

Eddie was smiling. Dr. Alexander Kaye had just told him that apparently there was nothing serious wrong and that he should be up and around in a couple of days.

"Boy, that's good news," said the 43-year-old veteran who was thrown to the ground in the rich race won by Sword Dancer. "I've got a little headache and the back of my neck is sore from where that other horse hit me.

"But it's not nearly as bad as when they rolled me into here on a stretcher a while ago."

Arcaro was hit by Lake Erie, handled by Walter Blum, when Black Hills went down. Lake Erie was right behind and plowed into him.

Dr. Kaye said the first examination showed no fractures but that as a precaution Eddie's neck was placed in traction.

Arcaro has been the victim of more than a dozen spills in his career but always has come up for more.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Larry Jackson, backed by Stan Musial's four runs batted in, blanked the Cincinnati Reds on eight hits Saturday 7-0 as the St. Louis Cardinals posted their fourth victory in five games.

Jackson, boosting his record to 5-6, struck out six and walked one. He was helped by three double plays.

Musial returned to the lineup after a week's layoff resulting from a prolonged slump.

After pounding a two-run homer in the fourth inning off Orlando Pena, Cincinnati starter and loser, Musial drove in two more runs in the fifth with a bases-loaded single off Willard Schmidt. Musial's homer was his fifth of the season.

Gino Cimoli blasted a solo homer, his sixth, in the first inning. Ken Boyer drove in the other two St. Louis runs with singles in the fifth and seventh innings.

Spahn Needs Help In Beating Chicago, 4-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Don McMahon Saturday saved veteran southpaw Warren Spahn's eighth win of the season as the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs, 4-2, for their fifth triumph in the past 12 games.

Inheriting a one out situation—with Chicago runners on second and third in the ninth—McMahon retired pinch batter Jim Marshall on an infield pop up and watched Billy Bruton gather in Lee Walls' long fly for the game-ending out.

Most of Spahn's trouble was not of his own making.

Dale Long drew a leadoff walk. Then Hank Aaron lost Earl Averill's pinch fly in the sun as it fell for a single.

Long moved to third after pinch batter Moose Moryn flied to Bruton. Tony Taylor followed with another high fly. Aaron caught up with the ball and was set to catch it when he turned back and the ball fell for a double, scoring Long and sending Averill to third.

McMahon checked in at this point.

Orioles Triumph Over Leading Pale Hose, 6-4

BALTIMORE (AP)—First baseman Bob Boyd's first homer of the season in the eighth inning carried the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-4 victory over the American League leading Chicago White Sox Saturday.

The Orioles moved within one game of the White Sox on Boyd's smash into the right field bleachers with Willie Tasby on base.

The White Sox had tied the score 4-4 in the top of the eighth on Nellie Fox's second homer with two runners in front of him.

The circuit by Fox was hit off pitcher Billy Loes who came out of it with his fourth victory against two defeats. Loes had relieved Skinny Brown in the eighth.

Catcher Gus Triandos of the Orioles jumped his team off to a 2-0 lead in the first with his 14th homer behind Al Pilarcik's double. The Orioles scored two more runs in the third.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ray Webster's ninth inning triple and a sacrifice fly by pinchhitter Jim Piersall Saturday gave the second-place Cleveland Indians an 8-7 victory over Washington and moved the Tribe to within a half-game of the American League-leading Chicago White Sox.

The ninth inning run off Hal Griggs broke up a long-ball duel which saw the Indians outhomer the Senators, 4 to 2.

All of Cleveland's runs before the ninth were driven in by homers. Vic Power connected with none on off Washington starter Pedro Ramos in the fourth. Granny Hamner hit a solo homer off Tex Clevenger in the fifth. Rocky Colavito hit his 19th homer, a grand slam off Clevenger, in the sixth. Sword Dancer Captures $145,500 Belmont Stakes

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sword Dancer outslugged Bagdad in a bitter stretch duel and captured the $145,500 Belmont Stakes Saturday by three-quarters of a length as two horses fell on the final turn, throwing jockeys Eddie Arcaro and Walter Blum into the mud. Royal Orbit was third by 12 lengths.

Arcaro was taken off the track in an ambulance and when he regained consciousness complained of neck pains. Blum walked off unaided.

Bagdad took the lead midway of the final bend in the 1½-mile race and Arcaro, aboard Black Hills, and Willie Shoemaker, riding Sword Dancer, moved up to challenge.

Black Hills, owned by the King Ranch, was directly behind Howard Keck's Bagdad with Sword Dancer on the outside. Black Hills suddenly lurched, head down and tumbled into the mud. A short time later the King Ranch colt was destroyed. He suffered a compound fracture of the right shin bone.

Lake Erie, Ridden by Blum, was directly behind Black Hills and tumbled over Arcaro's mount.

The spill marred the 91st and richest running of the famed finale of the Kentucky Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown series for 3-year olds.

Arcaro was seeking a record seventh Belmont victory.

Sword Dancer, a Virginia-bred colt owned by the Brookemeade Stable of Isabel Dodge Sloane, had finished second in the Kentucky Derby, nosed out by Tomy Lee. He also was second in the Preakness, four lengths behind Royal Orbit.

Sword Dancer, the slight favorite, paid $5.20, $3.00 and $2.30 in earning $93,525.

Sword Dancer's time was a sparkling 2:28 2-5.

FIELD WAS TOO LARGE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — In 1922 a motion picture company made a $25,000 offer to Harvard and Yale for exclusive movie rights to their football game that season. However, it carried an important stipulation. The game had to be played on a field 55 yards long instead of 100. The scope of the cameras could take in only 55 yards.

Kansas City Bows To Boston, 6-1

BOSTON (AP) — Tom Brewer threw a snappy six-hitter as Kansas City Saturday as the Boston Red Sox broke a three-game losing string with a 6-1 victory over the Athletics.

Brewer, a right-hander from Cheraw, S.C., retired the first 16 men in order, but tired in the late innings.

The Athletics spoiled his bid for a shutout on Ray Boone's double and Bob Cerb's run producing single in the seventh.

The Red Sox jumped on starter and loser Ray Herbert and two successors for 13 hits, including Pete Daley's first home run of the season. Pete Runnels, Don Buddin and Frank Malzone had three hits apiece.

Daley's solo clout featured a three-run Boston uprising in the seventh that broke a 1-1 tie and chased Herbert. They added two more in the eighth off Tom Gorman.

Mantle's 13th homer, following a single by Norm Siebern, gave the Yanks a two-run lead in the first. After Lou Berberet's two-run homer in the second tied the score, the Yanks took the lead for keeps on Marv Throneberry's homer leading off the third.

The third Yankee homer off loser Jim Bunning was hit by Tony Kubek after Bill Skowron singled in the fourth.

Citation Won By Round Table

CHICAGO (AP) — Travis M. Kerr's mighty Round Table put on a great stretch run to overtake Etonian and win the $56,800 Citation Handicap Saturday by equaling the Washington Park track record set by Swaps in 1956.

Round Table, racing's all-time top money winner, picked up $33,750 and boosted his earnings to $1,396,939. He whipped off the mile in 1:33 2-5.

Top-weighted at 130 pounds and conceding his rivals 17 to 26 pounds, Round Table, voted Horse of the Year for 1958, paid $3.80, $3.20 and $3.20.

For almost three-quarters of the mile, Gleeman and Belleau Chief battled for the lead with Charlie's Song a close third.

Near the stretch bend, Etonian moved inside of Round Table into fourth position. Steve Brooks then steered Round Table to the outside.

Brooks belted Round Table three or four times and he reached Etonian with about 70 yards to go. Then Round Table spurted to the front.

Etonian returned $11.60 and $7, while Charlie's Song paid $5.20.

Ekaba finished fourth in the 11-horse field.

TALENT ROAD SHOW

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox are putting a show on the road to search for baseball talent.

President Bill Veeck Saturday announced plans for one of the most extensive baseball tryout programs ever undertaken by a major league club.

The camp opens June 19 and runs for a month within a 200-mile radius of Chicago.

As soon as the Chicago high schools close late this month, a big two or three days camp will be staged in Comiskey Park.

All the other tryout camps will run for one or two days.

Torochik, a Calumet Farm 3-year-old, is a half brother to Pensive, 1944 Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner.

Deadline For Entry In Soap Box Derby Race Set For July 1

Jacksonville area boys still have time to enter the 1959 running of the Soap Box Derby, scheduled July 20 on the West College Avenue speedway. Registration closes at the John Ellis Chevrolet Co., Wednesday, July 1 at 5 p. m.

Sponsors of the annual event designed with youth in mind are the Jacksonville Journal Courier Co.; Jacksonville Exchange Club and John Ellis Chevrolet.

Full information and rule books are available free to any boy interested at the Ellis Chevrolet. Every effort will be made to assist boys in building their cars.

Shortly after the deadline for entry drawings will be held to determine pairings in the scheduled heats of the race.

Twenty-Fifth Year

Starting out 25 years ago as one man's idea for a one-city activity, the Soap Box Derby has grown already into an important force in helping shape the character of communities as well as boys.

At the same time, the Soap Box Derby has gone abroad as a living image of the American scene.

But a relatively few years ago, when Chevrolet first took over national sponsorship of the event, Soap Box Derby activity in most American communities was represented by one man in a dealership and another man on the local newspaper. These two did virtually the entire job of promoting the local Derby.

Many Volunteers

Today, the fully organized Derby in most communities brings together schools, clubs, newspaper, civic, service, fraternal and governemntal groups in a unified effort. Probably no other enterprise of this nature has so many volunteers working together harmoniously and effectively for one goal as the Soap Box Derby.

3 Million Watch

As nearly as can be estimated, some 3 million adults annually witness or take some active role in putting on the Soap Box Derby program all over the world. The record-setting 1958 program was held in 160 cities including West Germany, Alaska, Canada, Venezuela and the Philippines. In Germany alone more than 100 cities and towns had some 10,000 boys participating for the honor of going to Akron for the All-American finals.

This is indeed a contrast to the first All-American Soap Box Derby in 1934 when 34 American cities sent boys to Dayton to compete in the event.

World Youth Movement

As a growing American youth movement—in fact, a world youth movement—the Soap Box Derby serves to augment the good work of organizations such as the Boy Scouts, the Boys' Clubs and the YMCA. The Soap Box Derby has a common goal with these organizations—to help develop the best boys, the best citizens possible. The Soap Box Derby tries to do that by stressing the principles of fairness in competition, creativeness, craftsmanship, ingenuity and individual enterprise.

Success Habit

When a boy participates in the Soap Box Derby—from starting the job by registering at the dealership to building a car and making the run down the hill—he is forming the success habit. Whether he wins or not, he is of championship caliber. He is a champion in the eyes of all because he has learned to discipline himself, to plan his work and manage his own time, to finish the job he starts and to do all this within the rules.

As the Soap Box Derby continues to take on an ever increasing role in American communities, the men who direct it fully recognize their increasing responsibilities to the youth of America. This charge could never be fulfilled without the thousands of volunteers who give unstintingly of their time and energy each year.

Precious Heritage

In the next 25 years the Soap Box Derby should attain heights beyond the imagination of the most optimistic of us today. And it will be accomplished principally through the efforts of the dedicated men and women all over the world who work as volunteers on the program. This will happen because the heart and soul of the whole program is our most precious heritage—the American boy.

4-H Livestock Judges Eye Dairy Cattle

Members of Morgan county 4-H clubs are eyeing a selection of dairy cattle on the Willard Jones farm, a portion of the activities associated with the annual 4-H stock judging school held last Thursday.

The school started at 9 a.m. at the Warren Lakamp farm where 4-H members judged hogs, sheep and beef cattle. Following a sack lunch at noon, the group moved to the Jones farm and continued with dairy cattle.

After each member handed in his choice for first place in each class, a member of the 4-H committee conducted a short discussion on points of interest to watch for in each animal.

Assistant farm adviser Robert Hayward, Jr. will grade the papers and select the 4-H'ers with the highest scores who will represent Morgan County in a State stock judging contest to be held at Champaign July 13.

Winners of the local contest will be announced after all papers have been graded.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

(A roundup of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by H. A. Cate).

On Friday, May 29, two carloads of pooled southern Illinois wool were sold to a southern Illinois buyer, Lode Poultry Company of DuQuoin, for a total of $18,710.36. Nearly 43,000 pounds of wool were consigned by 129 producers to the second annual wool pool held at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station.

All clear wools of combing length—medium, fine and half blood—sold for 46½ cents a pound. Medium clothing wools also sold for 46½ cents, and the fine and half-blood clothing wool for 39½ cents. Seedy and burry fleeces sold at a discount of about 7 cents at 39¼ cents a pound. Five buyers presented sealed bids to the pool.

Wool Varies

Wool is not just wool. It varies in value depending upon many characteristics. It varies in fineness, length, strength and uniformity of fibers in the fleece and also in evenness and distinctness of crimp, purity, softness and color. Because of these variations, each of some 5,300 fleeces had to be critically examined by an expert and experienced wool grader before it could be offered for sale. As a result, the mountain of consigned wool was separated by grade into 18 hills of pooled wool. Putting on a wool pool means more work and planning than just bringing in and selling the wool.

It's Done This Way

Wool is received in bags at a truck-bed-level unloading dock. Each bag is tagged with the consignor's name and address. A dockman checks the incoming wool and sees that each consignor's wool is bunched so that it may be graded as a unit. A full wool bag may weigh 200 to 300 pounds. A block-and-tackle hoist is hooked to the bottom of the wool sack to raise it so that the fleeces may be rolled from the sack across the grader's table.

At the Dixon Springs pool, one man at the grader's table pulled the fleeces from the hoisted bag and passed them along to a second man, who pulled out the tags and manure locks before passing each fleece on to the grader. With a quick, experienced eye, the grader scanned each fleece and tossed it into one of several big pressed board boxes.

As soon as a wool grower's complete consignment had been graded, the boxes were carried to a scale for weighing. The weight of each grade of wool was entered on a sale sheet. Each consignor had his own sale sheet so that he could have a record of the weight for each kind of wool he delivered to the pool. This sale sheet is also used as a basis for settlement, with the price entered for each kind of wool delivered.

After Weighing

After weighing and recording, a consignor's wool loses its ownership identity. Wool of like grades is tossed into bags measuring 2½ feet in diameter and 7 feet long. Supported by an eight-foot-high wooden frame, a metal ring and clamp the size of the bag opening holds the bag for filling and tramping. A well-tramped bag will hold more than 30 fleeces and when filled is ready for release from the support for sewing up the open end. The wool grade is marked on each bag, and it is then stacked with other bags of the same grade ready for buyer inspection. Buyers may or may not inspect the wool. In most cases they accept the wool sorter's grades. At Dixon Springs several of the bids were made by telephone and mail.

Compared to Other Co-Op Sales

On hand to assist with the wool pool was Dr. M. E. Mansfield, Station veterinarian, who also always helps with the lamb, feeder pig and feeder cattle sales. At these other sales, the product carries itself across the scales, into the lots and through the sale ring. But wool has to be carried. Dr. Mansfield says one consolation is that wool doesn't make any noise.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

DAIRY: SUPPLY, CONSUMPTION, AND PRICES

Supply. Since decreasing slightly from the record 125.9 billion pounds in 1957, the supply of milk in the United States has been quite stable. Production in the first half of 1959 approximated that of the same period a year ago. However, it is likely that the output will pick up in the latter half of this year. Increased production per cow (a record May 1 amount of 231 pounds daily per cow) and reduced culling rate will contribute to the larger milk supply.

Average daily production per farm selling Grade A milk continues to increase rapidly. In April daily production for Chicago shippers averaged 809 pounds, up 7 percent from April 1958. In the Quad-Cities (Rock Island), the average was 662 pounds, up 5 percent; and in St. Louis it was 573 pounds, up 13 percent. For their milk supplies, these markets draw heavily from Wisconsin, Iowa, and Missouri in addition to Illinois. Producer numbers were down from April 1958 by 2 percent at Chicago, 9 percent in the Quad-Cities, and 5 percent at St. Louis.

Consumption. The amount of milk and dairy products consumed per person changes very little from year to year. It is mainly changes in retail prices, personal incomes or the presence of substitute products that affects consumption of these products.

Per capita consumption of fluid milk and cream in 1959 will be close to the 345-pound figure of 1958. Butter should average about 8.4 pounds per person, the same as in 1958 but far below the amount in 1934, which was 18.6 pounds. Per capita consumption of oleomargarine in 1958 was 9.0 pounds; in 1934 it was 2.1 pounds.

Cheese, which utilizes 11 percent of the total milk supply, will continue in strong demand. Per capita cheese consumption attained a new record in 1958 (8.4 pounds), when meat prices were high.

Per capita consumption of ice cream is stable at about 3.8 gallons annually. However, ice milk (low butterfat dessert) consumption is increasing. Also, sales of vegetable fat frozen desserts, now legal in 12 states, including Illinois, have grown to exceed 20 percent of ice cream sales in the permitting states.

Evaporated milk sales are declining. Per capita consumption in 1958 was 12.6 pounds, the lowest since 1934. Consumers are using more nonfat dry milk, half and half or whole milk in place of the evaporated milk.

Prices. Prices paid milk producers, especially in or near the surplus milk-producing area of the upper Midwest, will continue to be influenced strongly by the government support price. Current support levels, which will be in effect through March 1960, are $3.06 a hundred pounds for manufacturing milk and 56.6 cents a pound for butterfat.

Blend prices in fluid milk markets in northern Illinois will continue to be depressed because of large surpluses. In the first three months of this year, for example, 45 percent of the milk in the Chicago pool went into the lower priced manufacturing classes. The surplus amounted to only 14 percent in St. Louis. Producer prices in southern Illinois will be influenced by strong St. Louis prices.

Will The Soybean Be A Surplus Problem?

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Is the soybean — American agriculture's cinderella crop—headed for the surplus problems that have overtaken wheat, corn and cotton?

This question is bobbing up as more and more producers turn to this crop which, in less than 20 years, has moved from a minor position in agriculture to the No. 4 source of crop income. It is topped now only by wheat, corn and cotton.

Back in 1940 when most of the soybeans grown in this country were used as a hay crop, no one dreamed that in less than 20 years the crop would become more important than oats, peanuts, tobacco, rice, or barley.

Last year's crop was the largest of record, totaling 575 million bushels, or nearly eight times as much as in 1940.

Soybeans, originally imported from the Orient, got their big push during World War II when there was a big demand for food fats and oils. The soybean is a rich source of such oil, as well as a high protein feed for livestock. The government encouraged increased production.

This demand for soybeans and its by products has continued into the post war period. A considerable portion of the crop has moved into export markets. Today the United States is not only the world's No. 1 producer of this crop, but the largest exporter as well.

But last year's record crop is turning out to be larger than the market demands. Consequently, a small surplus is accumulating in hands of the government under supports.

Commenting on the outlook, the Foreign Agricultural Service said the prospects are not as dark as it might appear.

"Soybean sales are expected to rise again this year," it said. "Also, it is possible that production may not continue to rise as fast as it has . . . the United States has no close competitors in the export field. Communist China, though next in line, trails by a substantial margin . . . in fact, it is possible that Asia, which at present exports substantial quantities, may become a net importer. The population of Asia is rising and the per capita consumption is low."

Rabbit Boon Says State Biologist

JERSEYVILLE—The Jerseyville Rotary Club learned much of the life and habits of the common "cottontail rabbit" at the weekly meeting of the club held Monday noon at the Peace Evangelical and Reformed Church in this city.

The program chairman for the after dinner program was Robert Krause who introduced as the principal speaker, Paul Moore, state game biologist for the Illinois Department of Conservation. The latter is moving to Jersey county where he is to reside at Otterville and handle a ten county assignment in this part of Illinois in conjunction with his work as a game biologist.

Moore spoke briefly regarding the work of game conservation and then presented a most interesting film on the life and habits of the Cotton Tail Rabbit which was produced by the Missouri Wild Life Commission.

To the ordinary person a rabbit is just a rabbit, but it is one of the main links in supplying food for a variety of predators that would ordinarily be preying on domestic farm animals. The rabbit appeases the appetite of the grey fox, coyote, weasel and other predatory creatures that would be devouring domestic animals but for the fact that they are able to obtain sufficient food through the rabbit family.

Hedge is Harbor

The removal of the osage orange fence (hedge) has done much to contribute to the decline of the rabbit population in this part of Illinois. The multiflora rose, however, which is being planted to some extent in some localities, is serving the same purpose as the osage orange fence did in furnishing cover for rabbits, quail and other forms of useful wild life.

The average doe of the rabbit family produces four litte. a year, ranging from four to as many as six to the litter. The usual yearly production per year for a doe is eighteen young for the four litters.

The rabbit and other game are by products of the farm. There was a time when such by product was looked upon as always being available, but this is no longer the case. The disappearance of cover from the farm, hedges, etc., has resulted in the gradual disappearance of rabbits and other game from striving with natural enemies as well as with the hunters in season.

The era for a well planned and carried out system for restoration of game and other wild life has long been overdue, and it is toward this end that the State of Illinois Department of Conservation is striving.

The Jerseyville Rotary Club's next regular meeting will not be held at the usual hour and place, but will be a joint meeting with the Carlinville Rotary Club at the Rinaker Lake in the Shipman locality.

Jerseyville Rotarians will meet about 5:30 p.m. at the Peace Evangelical and Reformed Church and will leave there in time to arrive at the picnic site on or before 6:30 p.m.

Irrigated pastures at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station produced 1 1/4 more tons of dry-matter forage per acre, increased grazing 71 percent, or 111 more animal-unit days, maintained ladino clover in the stand and increased animal gains by an average of 115 pounds an acre over results obtained on nonirrigated pastures.

The average age of treated fence posts still in service at Sinnissippi forest was about 13 years compared with only 5 years for untreated posts. This study was conducted by University of Illinois forest product researchers.

Greene County Fair Sponsors Ticket Sale

CARROLLTON — A meeting of the board of directors of the Greene County Fair was held Wednesday evening at which time plans were made for an advance season ticket sale, the date of same to be announced.

According to plans season tickets which ordinarily sell for $2.40 will be on sale for ten days at a cost of $1.50.

Plans were also made for a pre-Fair harness racing program to be staged by the local horse men and others who wish to participate on Tuesday evening, June 23. Three races will be held beginning at 8 p.m. This will be a starter for a number of the colts and some of the finest prospects in this area will be shown in this special race. The money derived from this special race will be used to improve the race track.

The regular Fair will open July 13 and will continue through July 18. The night harness racing program will open Tuesday, July 14. The beauty contest usually held on the last night of the Fair will be held this year on the first night which is July 13. A Western show will be held Friday afternoon of the Fair which is an additional feature to the already planned program. The annual Greene county 4-H club show will be held in connection with the Fair under supervision of John Bicket, the farm adviser and his assistant, Bill Whitfield.

A new building will be in use this year for the first time and is one of the few such buildings on a county fairground in the state. It is an addition to the swine barn which will be used for a show ring. The building is 50 by 60 and has a show ring of 32x40. There will be catch pens to hold the hogs while showing and there will also be bleachers for the spectators while watching the show.

Premiums to be offered this year at the Fair are approximately $35,000. The racing program with Carl Wright as superintendent is offering $8,700 including six $1000 stakes. $5000 is being offered in the Beef cattle department with Vernon Reynolds as superintendent; $3675 is being offered in Dairy cattle with Kenneth Edwards as superintendent; $4575 is being offered in Sheep with Lynn Kinser as superintendent; Kenneth Byland is superintendent of Swine and $4075 is being offered as premiums.

In the Junior Department Livestock with George Goeddy and Tom Hanlin as superintendents premiums are offered in the amount of $3000. Other premiums are $500 in Poultry with Mrs. E. Reisch as superintendent; $364 in Farm and Garden with Mrs. J. S. Alred superintendent; $200 in Floriculture with Mrs. Hazel Allen, superintendent; $125 in Textile and Art with Mrs. Helen Longmeyer, superintendent; $115 in Education with Mrs. Thelma Wilkinson, superintendent; $380 in Culinary with Mrs. George Ostermann, superintendent.

Mrs. Grace Ashlock is superintendent of Fruits and Vegetables and Russell Wiles and Mrs. Arch Howard are superintendents of Boy and Girl Scout department. $2,600 is offered in all departments of the Vocational Agriculture Show of Section 15 with Sanford Hutchison as superintendent. Ed Baker is superintendent of the Horse Pulling Contest and $400 is offered in prizes.

Uncommonly high gains were made by both yearling and two-year-old cattle at the University of Illinois on self-fed, complete pelleted rations last winter. One lot of yearlings and one lot of two-year-olds both gained 3¼ pounds a head daily during a 135-day feeding trial on a ration of 40 percent hay and 60 percent concentrate.

Illinois is the Number 1 producer of horse-radish. And Madison and St. Clair counties produce more horse-radish than any other area in the United States.

Pisgah Potluck Club Quizzed About Flag

Roll Out The Barrels

For a long time oil has been thought of as one of the earth's great but limited prizes. Stories once were common that we would run out of oil in 10 or 15 years. But right now the alarm looks a bit premature.

In spite of the fact that both the European and American economies—each heavily dependent upon oil—are growing at rapid pace, we are at this moment confronted by a big surplus of oil. And many of the experts think it may last for years.

It's hard to realize that less than three years ago, during the Suez crisis, the Western world was talking oil shortage.

Today the big oil-producing lands of the Middle East, Venezuela and other parts of the globe are pouring out petroleum in immense volume. Governments in some of these places press the foreign companies there to keep output high, since government incomes depend upon oil profits.

On top of this production, the Soviet orbit is cutting gradually into Western markets, adding to the available supply.

In this country, the government's decision to fix firm quotas on oil imports gives a boost to our domestic output, without severely curbing foreign production.

New sources still are coming into play. The great French oil find in the Sahara is beginning to yield results. It is forecast that before many years Algeria may fill all France's oil needs. Added output from Libya increases the total.

The economics of the oil industry seem to operate to keep output higher than demand. Not only do governments put on the pressure, but a good many companies, having drawn on borrowed capital, have to produce to get out from under.

Nobody in the industry seems to have any great solutions to offer. There's a feeling that somehow or other, slowly, the oil price structure will operate to bring demand and supply closer in tune.

Meantime, the words "oil glut" make strange reading. Next thing you know, we'll be hearing that diamonds are available for shirt buttons.

Les Miserables

In a number of cities the weatherman has a new thing called the "discomfort index." Combining calculations of humidity and temperature, it tells you when you can expect to feel either comfortable or miserable.

According to the formula, when the index is around 60 to 65, everything ought to be fine for everybody.

When it goes up to 70, about 10 per cent of the citizenry will feel poorly. At 75, half the population will suffer. And at 80 and higher, the discomfort will blanket everybody.

Obviously this may prove quite a handy guide to people in planning the day. It can help you decide whether to stick at the desk, mow the lawn, have a picnic or sprawl in the hammock.

But it also may give you a hint of deeper things. If the old index is at 60 and you feel lousy, it can't be the weather. Maybe then you can run a check list of other possibilities: your health, a deteriorating armed truce at home, feuds in the office, Khrushchev, or whatever.

With this nice initiative from the weather gang, perhaps we'll one day have discomfort indexes for some of these other things. Then all you'd have to do to explain a grouch would be to check your charts.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's questionable that NATO — greatest peacetime military alliance in history—can hang together, at least as it is now with its 15 members.

Time, changes in the world, and Premier Nikita Khrushchev are all working on it. And Khrushchev's working hard.

It was a moment of terror when the Western allies, including the United States, set up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on April 4, 1949 with the understanding that an attack on one was an attack on all.

Band together in common defense or face the prospect of being picked off one at a time. That was their choice.

The year before, communism had gulped down Czechoslovakia. And in April 1949 Stalin, with his blockade of Berlin, had forced the United States into its historic airlift to save the city.

At that hour in history NATO gave the Allies a greater sense of security than they ever had before or since:

They had a terrifying superiority over Stalin because, if he attacked, the European Allies could hold him off with their ground forces while the United States flattened the Soviets with atomic bombs. That was the theory.

At that instant the United States alone had the atomic bomb. But it was a monopoly which, at the very minute the NATO treaty came into existence, was beginning to disappear.

Early in 1949 the Soviet Union was putting the finishing touches on its own atomic bomb which it was to explode for the first time later in the year. The United States went on to develop the hydrogen bomb. But so did the Soviets by 1953.

For lack of determination, the huge land forces which NATO members were supposed to produce never materialized. And, meanwhile, something else happened which made even the fairly small land forces they produced look even smaller.

The Soviets and the United States both developed missiles for crossing continents. Even President Eisenhower acknowledged last March that Allied armies in Europe did not mean much any more because they were overwhelmingly outnumbered by the Soviet Union.

The United States, with its fleets of bombers and their hydrogen bombs based at friendly stations around the Soviet perimeter, can still discourage a Soviet attack. This is still a consolation to the NATO members.

But it is a mixed consolation because of one thing: The world is in a transition period, passing from the day of the bomber to the era of the missile.

The United States is arranging to surround the Soviet Union—again at friendly stations on Allied soil—with bases for missiles which have their noses pointed at Moscow. In time, when there are enough missiles, the bombers will be obsolete.

But the Soviets are building in the Soviet Union their own bases for missiles pointed westward. In time, with enough hydrogen-headed missiles, Khrushchev could destroy Western Europe.

But it's a pipe-dream if the West thinks the United States can build missile posts right next door to the Iron Curtain and that the Soviets will keep all its own missile bases strictly inside the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev showed what a pipe-dream it is by warning Turkey and Greece, both NATO members, not to permit American missile bases in their territory unless they want him to build missile bases right next door in the Soviet satellites, Albania and Bulgaria.

And Thursday he cautioned two other NATO members — Norway and Denmark — against permitting missile bases within their frontiers. He indirectly proposed that they get out of NATO altogether.

As bait for these four NATO members, he proposed to Greece and Turkey that there be a nuclear-free, missile-free zone from Central Europe to the Mediterranean; to Norway and Denmark he proposed a similar nuclear-free zone in Scandinavia.

It is perhaps significant that Khrushchev, Stalin's successor, is trying to terrorize Greece and Turkey. Stalin tried the same, in another way, back in the late 1940's.

Stalin tried to shake Berlin free of the Western grip in 1949. Now, 10 years later, when he feels strong enough, Khrushchev is trying to shake Berlin free of the West.

As Soviet missile power grows and as Khrushchev steps up his campaign to keep American missile bases out of NATO countries, those countries will feel more and more pressure to cut loose from NATO since, if war came, they'd be the nearest targets.

The world may be puzzled by Khrushchev's tactics over Berlin right now. But you can be sure this is just the beginning of a concentrated campaign, to be carried on for years, to shake NATO to pieces.

And even one of the NATO stalwarts, France, made the whole structure shudder this week when President Charles de Gaulle insisted upon having control over any nuclear stockpiles this country wanted to set up in France.

Rehabilitated Patients Need a Little Assistance

BY MARIE DAERR

A study at Jackson County Hospital in Michigan has shown that physical and vocational rehabilitation programs can help as many as three out of four elderly hospital patients return to their communities.

But how many communities are ready with suitable living arrangements and other services to welcome these elderly people who need only a small amount of help in daily life?

Dr. Wilma Donahue, who heads the University of Michigan's division of gerontology, asked this question at a meeting of state vocational rehabilitation directors in Washington.

After an eight-month rehabilitation program, 28 of 37 patients were ready to leave the hospital.

"But," Dr. Donahue pointed out, "the very success of these efforts to get the patients to a point where they could live more economically outside the hospital created a big placement problem.

"These patients didn't have family and money. They were old. Their chronic illnesses, their mental confusion and other disabilities all made it hard for them to stay independent.

"People need expensive hospital care and space. Yet they can't live without some assistance and supervision. When they feel better and learn they can take part in activities, earn a little money and once more enjoy life they make it clear that they would like to leave the hospital and take on as much responsibility as possible.

"But the lack of community programs for the elderly, the scarcity of special living arrangements and the failure of service programs, including vocational rehabilitation, to reach the homebound elderly people creates a real dilemma."

Of the Jackson County Hospital patients, 90 per cent had no family. About 40 per cent had children living, but few of these off-spring had any contact with or concern for the parent in the hospital.

Most had fewer than eight grades of school. Two-thirds of the group were 65 or older. Almost half were 75 or over. Three out of four had nervous disorders.

Workshop and craft programs had fine results. Patients learned skills well enough to produce saleable products. Two patients developed their crafts to the point where local stores began buying their products.

Q—If a mother who has worked under Social Security dies, are her children eligible for Social Security benefits from her acount?—L. F.

A—Yes, the children are eligible for payments even if the father is living, if the mother worked in covered employment in at least six of the 13 calendar quarters preceding death, or furnished at least half the children's support, or if the husband was not living with and not supporting the children.

Q—I'd like to turn my hobby of weaving into a money-making proposition. Do you have any ideas on where I could market place mats, towels, etc?—Mrs. R. F. Y.

A—If your products are unusual and attractive, take some samples into gift shops and department stores in your town. Word-of-mouth advertising is effective. If you show your products at church bazaars, club meetings and parties and they make a hit the news will soon spread.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

The Conquering Spirit

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The story of Naaman the Syrian (II Kings 5) in the days of Elisha the prophet is one of the most vital in human interest and in suggestion of humane capabilities among all the many human interest stories of the Bible.

To me, it is a fascinating and inspiring subject—the story of how men and women have made great achievements, risen to heights of eminence, power, and real greatness, in spite of illnesses, handicaps, and frustrations that would seem to have been overwhelming and destructive.

A prime example is former United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

To even the bravest and most indomitable spirit there is the ultimate "point of no return," which even the strongest will and the most intense determination cannot master.

Mr. Dulles, apart from his main career as a statesman, has been known as a prominent churchman, a Presbyterian layman. Undoubtedly, his Christian convictions have had a large part in a dedicated career as a statesman. His course has been far larger than one of personal ambition, and a place in the course of world events. He has sensed with clarity the nature and the menace of communism and its policy of world domination.

In the mixed and controversial nature of national and world politics Mr. Dulles has had his strong proponents and his keen critics, of course.

But what I am getting at is the admiration of both friends and critics for Mr. Dulles' indomitable spirit.

It ought to be an inspiration to all of us in our lesser spheres of service and duty to see how this man carries on for a long period despite operations and a grave illness and with the threat of worse ever upon him.

Only a deep dedication to a cause and duty could have made it possible.

It is an interesting circumstance that almost at the moment of Mr. Dulles' resignation Washington had been dedicating a memorial to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, a victim also of cancer, who carried on to the last with a similar dedicated spirit of public service.

In my own life I have suffered vicariously through an almost incredible number of major and minor operations and nearly fatal illness befalling a close companion.

And, vicariously, I have caught something of the courage as I have seen it all happening, with a determination never to become an invalid nor to develop an invalid complex.

We have come far from Naaman, the Syrian, but he conquered his pride, which is often harder to conquer than any more material handicap. In conquering his pride, he conquered his leprosy and, let us hope, went on to new conquests.

Southern Fried Conversation in Washington—Special Delivery, or Letter Late Than Never

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— Going up in the elevator at the Press Club to make a speech, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, Republican National Committee chairman, ran into former Rep. James P. Richards of South Carolina. Richards was Democratic chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee when Morton was Assistant Secretary of State for Congressional Relations. He's now head of the Tobacco Institute of America.

The two southern gentlemen greeted each other the way they do, even though they're in opposite political parties.

"Ah was jus' coming to hear if you had anything good to say about the Republicans," cracked Richards.

"Well," came back Sen. Morton, "what would you like to have me talk about? "Lung cancer?"

SECRETARY of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson took his public affairs director Nils Lennartson with him to the International Monetary Conference in London last month. When they arrived, Federal Reserve Board chairman William McChesney Martin told Nils, "I have got a letter addressed to you in my care. I'll give it to you tomorrow."

But the next day Martin reported he couldn't find the letter. He didn't find it until the day of the conference. Then he delivered it to Lennartson just before they took off for home. Nils opened it up.

It was a letter from a British Broadcasting Corp. commentator, asking Lennartson to arrange an interview for him—with Martin.

OF THE HUNDREDS of parties that he has attended, State Department protocol chief Wiley Buchanan says the most elaborate was the one tossed by his mother for visiting King Baudouin of Belgium. The affair, which mom tossed at her Dallas, Tex., home, cost $15,000. Only 40 people were invited.

The decorations were provided by one of Dallas' leading landscape artists, the music by a popular society dance band and the food by a chef on loan from the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel. Before the wingding ended at 3 a.m., guests gobbled up $400 worth of caviar.

THE PUBLICITY that's being given to space monkeys is evidently worrying their show business colleagues. For instance, officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration are laughing about a telegram that was sent to squirrel monkey Baker soon after she returned from her historic rocket flight. It was from Kokomo Jr., a trained chimpanzee whose specialty is shining shoes.

The wire read: "Congratulations on your successful space flight. I won't take space flights if you won't shine shoes. Apingly yours, Kokomo Jr."

THE NATIONAL Federation of Republican Women has come up with a novel idea for getting new members. It's called a Mother-Daughter Contest.

Idea is for mothers to recruit their daughters into the organization. Once the offspring has parted with the membership fee, she and her mom become eligible for an all-expense-paid trip to Washington. The winner will be picked at a drawing here early next year.

Most unusual thing about the membership drive, however, is the contest promotion slogan. It goes like this:

"Mother, mother! What is new?"
"I'll tell you, darling daughter,
"Work with me for the GOP,
"Don't you think you oughter?"

GUESTS AT A National Housing Center exhibition of French tapestries seemed more fascinated by the hors d'oeuvres than the art work. Their favorite food was a hunk of expensive French cheese which they sliced and ate on crackers.

Only people who were unimpressed were French diplomats. They hovered around a bowl of all-American cheese dip that's made by simply mixing powdered onion soup with sour cream.

DR. ROBERT ALLEN, who heads the accrediting agency for correspondence schools, has found that the desire for an education can sometimes be pretty frightening. He's come to the conclusion after answering a multitude of letters from people who want to take off-beat, non-existent courses like abdominal surgery and flying.

The most chilling request stated: "If you teach brain surgery, please send me the final examination. I don't need the course. I want to take the exam so I can start operating right away."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This fall will see the biggest invasion of television by top movie names in the history of the new medium.

With the 1959-60 season pretty well shaped up, the schedule of new shows indicates a stellar turnout. Stars who can still draw top money in films are turning to the series grind.

The lure is obvious: security. They need only observe the fortunes earned by Loretta Young, Jane Wyman, Lucille Ball, Dick Powell, David Niven and others who got into TV. The important factor is not the salaries, but ownership of the series. This can amount to an annuity.

Here are some of the newcomers:

"Robert Taylor's Detectives" (ABC-Fri.). Taylor plays a captain of detectives in a typical American city.

"June Allyson Theater" (CBS-Mon.). An anthology show with Miss Allyson as hostess and part-time star.

"Whispering Smith" (NBC-Mon.). Audie Murphy stars as a detective in the first city police force in the West. Guy Mitchell plays his sidekick.

"The Deputy" (NBC-Sat.). Henry Fonda appears with Allan Case, Wallace Ford and Betty Lou Keim in a Western adventure show.

"Wichita Town" (NBC-Wed.). Joel McCrea plays the marshal with son Jody as his friend, a foreman on a frontier ranch.

"Goldie" (CBS-Thurs.). Betty Hutton stars as a manicurist who is given the bequest of a fortune.

And there may be more.

Before leaving, fraternity members hid several alarm clocks. Alarms began sounding at 4 a.m., keeping the 32 girls temporarily occupying the house busy hunting down the clocks.

KEEPING SECRETS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A man asked police to help him find a paper sack containing $1,000 which he lost while riding a bus in downtown Phoenix.

But the man refused to allow his name to be published.

He explained: "I've been six years saving that money. My wife doesn't know about it. If she knew, she'd make me put it in our joint bank account."

Matter of FACT

When Michelangelo was a young boy in Caprese, a small town near Florence, Italy, he knew he wanted to be an artist. His father looked on painting as a common "trade." In spite of this, Michelangelo became one of the greatest painters and sculptors of all times. When he died in 1564, he left behind him works of art that are among the most treasured in the world.

They'll Do It Every Time

It's What You Do That Makes You Attractive

A woman is her most attractive self when she is —

All dressed up for a party at which she expects to have a good time.

Holding a child she loves on her lap.

Listening to what someone else is saying obviously fascinated.

Laughing.

Holding a small child by the hand and is matching her step to his, but not, of course, when she is impatiently dragging the child along.

Singing someone else's praises or talking about something that interests her keenly.

But a woman is at her worst when she is —

Screaming at a child.

Deliberately trying to make an impression.

Talking in a loud voice that carries clear across a public room.

Bawling out a clerk, waitress, or servant.

Repeating unkind gossip about another woman.

Telling how she got even with a person.

Trying to act half her age.

Seen in public with her hair in pin curls.

Pushing and shoving her way through a crowd.

Bossing a man around.

Listening impatiently to what someone else is saying with a sour look on her face.

Getting a laugh at someone else's expense.

LITTLE LIZ.

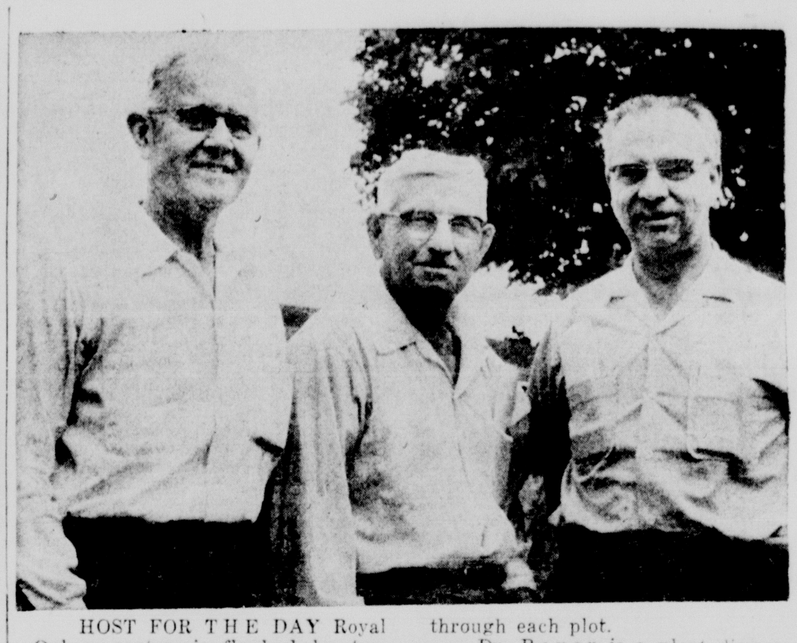
Poverty is no disgrace—but that's about all that can be said for it.

Grain Producers Attend 'Wheat Day' At Royal Oakes Farm

A FAMILIAR SIGN alongside the Oakes demonstration and testing plots reminds motorists and farmers alike that the fight for better yields and varieties never ends in Illinois. The Oakes farm has been engaged in wheat tests since 1907 and recognized by the University of Illinois as an "official" test plot since 1930.

TYPICAL OF THE CROWD attending the annual "Wheat Day" held at the Royal Oakes farm, just north of Bluffs on Route 100, Tuesday afternoon is this group of interested farmers seated alongside the highway on "nature's bleachers."

Many representatives from the University of Illinois faculty were on hand to discuss aspects of the wheat tests being conducted on the Oakes farm. Several area farm advisers were on hand to contribute to the program.



HOST FOR THE DAY Royal Oakes, center, is flanked by two members of the University of Illinois delegation, Dr. Wayne Bever, right, and Dr. O. T. Bonnett, left.

Mr. Oakes opened the day's activities with a general description of the 19 varieties under test and a tour through each plot.

Dr. Bever is a plant disease specialist; Dr. Bonnett explained that many of the varieties sold as "certified" are the result of 15-20 years of experimentation on plots under actual farm conditions.

Large Crowd Attends Wheat Day Tuesday At Royal Oakes Farm

by John B. Martin

A large crowd of wheat producers from surrounding west-central Illinois counties attended the annual "Wheat Day" last Tuesday at the Royal Oakes farm just north of Bluffs to examine nineteen varieties planted in 1/10 acre plots along Route 100.

The afternoon program started at 1:30 with a tour through the nineteen plots, Royal Oakes, host for the annual event, escorted the group and made comments on each of the varieties, Scott County Farm Adviser Dale Hewitt and a number of delegates from the University of Illinois College of Agriculture were on hand to explain some of the more technical aspects of a few varieties under test as well as pass on information concerning wheat production throughout the State. The Winter oats and barley test plots were not included in the demonstrations this year due to the Winter kill.

The constant vigil for new varieties and new methods has been a reality at the Oakes' farm more than a half-century. Mr. Oakes started the testing of different varieties on his farm in 1907 and has been active in the University of Illinois testing program since 1930 as an "official" testing station. All of the varieties used at the Oakes plots are approved by the university and with the help of his two sons, Charles and Harold, is recognized as one of the State's best informed wheat experts.

Changing Varieties

"We must be on the lookout for new varieties of wheat suitable for this area," Oakes related, "since the wheat picture is a constantly changing business." "As soon as we find a variety that is a profitable producer for our particular area, some form of insect or disease takes over and we have to start all over again.

15-20 Years

Dr. O. T. Bonnett, veteran small grains breeder from the university, told the group that the advance work and testing of each "new" variety of wheat sold as "certified" in the State of Illinois must undergo test after test under actual farm conditions. "This takes between fifteen and twenty years of constant testing—if we're lucky."

He called attention to the Illinois 53-818 variety, still in the experimental stages, as showing great promise.

Best all-around production tests still show Vermillion as the top variety for farms in this area, followed closely by Knox and Dual.

Much Disease

Dr. Wayne Bever, plant pathology specialist, noted that he has found scab present in almost every wheat field he has entered this year. Tests conducted by his department at the university showed that scab was quite serious last year and results of sows forced to eat scab infested feed tended to have dead pigs and insufficient milk to sustain the newborn pigs. Tests also showed that pigs would not eat the scab infested rations if given any other choice.

Clean Storage Area Now

Johnny Pendleton of the university staff called attention to an item that no grain farmer can afford to overlook—proper storage areas.

He called upon farmers to use the rainy days between now and harvest time to clean old grain bins, patch holes and spray for insects and disease.

The time spent before harvest will more than pay when market time rolls around.

Scott County Farm Adviser Dale Hewitt acted as discussion leader during the afternoon program assisted by assistant youth adviser Bob Coffman. Several speakers from both the university and other allied agencies presented brief reports and observations during the afternoon activities.

A rain shower rolled in on the group from the south just as the program came to a close. Everyone scattered for their autos and headed for home.

INTEREST ran very high at wheat day activities. This farm operator is vitally interested in the results obtained on the Oakes test plots. All eyes were on the speakers.

U of I DELEGATES talk with Dale Hewitt, center facing camera, after the program ended. Mr. Hewitt is Scott county farm adviser and has worked closely with Oakes in the demonstration test plots.

A rain shower fell just as the program closed. The thoughtful delegate on far left came to the meeting prepared.

SHOWING THE RESULTS of a variety of diseases that attack wheat varieties is Dr. Wayne Bever, left. The group of interested spectators are standing waist-high in the wheat test plots. The small boy in foreground is nearly covered by the ripening wheat.

Reserve Contract Farmers Urged To Cut Weeds Soon

Farmers with conservation reserve contracts have a responsibility to themselves and to their neighbors to control the spread of harmful weeds according to Mr. Wallace T. Hembrough, ASC Office Manager of Morgan County. Although the problem affects all farmers, those with conservation reserve contracts must be sure that noxious weeds do not produce seed. Failure to comply with this soil bank regulation could result in forfeiture to the total conservation reserve payment for this year.

One Mowing Adequate

Under average conditions one mowing or one application of chemicals will provide adequate control. However, the wide range in maturity dates for different species will sometimes require attention more than once. Each farmer will be expected to use recommended control measures at the proper time.

Reduce Crop Yields

Competition from weeds can prevent the establishment of desirable cover on conservation reserve land as well as reduce crop yields on nearby cultivated fields. Morgan County farmers are fully aware of the serious losses which result from uncontrolled weed competition. The use of modern equipment and new chemical weed killers provides little excuse for tolerating weeds.

Mowing and other control measures should be delayed as late as effective control can be accomplished in order to prevent destruction of beneficial wildlife habitat until after the nesting season. The cover now being developed on conservation reserve areas is expected to increase the game population in Illinois. This aspect of the soil bank program should not be hindered by unnecessary or untimely control measures.

The following is the list of weeds which the Morgan County ASC committee has decided must be controlled on conservation reserve areas: Canada Thistle, Field Bindweed, Russian Knapweed, Cocklebur, Perennial Sow Thistle, Leafy Spurge and Hoary Cress.

Brave Little Rebel

Chapter 11: "Injuns!"

"Noah," Elvira began hopefully, "why don't we camp here by the stream tonight. The day is almost gone now, and we can't go much farther before we will have to stop.

"Tonight we could all have a bath and clean clothes, so that when we get to the fort tomorrow, they won't take us for a band of dark skinned Indians."

Noah laughed at this. "All right, honey," he agreed. "That's a good idea. We're a pretty tired bunch of people tonight anyway. If it's a bath you women are hankerin' for, you'll have it!

"Simon," he ordered, "Go tell John Boley to call a halt for tonight. Tell him we'll all camp and rest before our last day of travel."

Simon, glad for an excuse to break away from his mother's grasp and the wash cloth, turned on his heel and disappeared among the wagons in search of his father's friend.

Elvira and Emmy Lou had just seated themselves on the bank of the stream, when the sound of a rapidly galloping horse met their ears. Quickly Noah Culp, pulled his bare feet from the stream and stood up. Shading his eyes from the glare of the setting sun, he saw a lone rider, traveling at breakneck speed toward the encampment.

"Injuns!"

"Injuns! Injuns!" cried the horseman as he swiftly approached the little group, which stood anxiously waiting to hear why this obviously excited man was riding his horse at such speed.

"Injuns! Injuns!" he repeated at the top of his voice. "Over there, overthere," he pointed. "Just to the other side of that rise," he shouted excitedly.

"We'll be all right."

Noah Culp turned, looking toward the rise of which the man spoke. From his position, the horizon lifted several hundred feet above the natural floor of the prairie in a sort of ridge of eroded stone. The ridge, which lay perhaps two miles away, appeared innocent enough from this vantage point, as it reflected the last golden rays of the setting sun.

"Quiet, man," ordered Noah Culp, as he grabbed the reins of the wildly dancing horse. "Do you want to frighten the women and children half out of their wits?"

"Elvira," he spoke softly to his wife, "take the child back up to the wagon. Speak to no one about this yet. As soon as we learn what he has to say, I'll come to you. Don't be frightened, Little One," he said reassuringly to Emmy Lou, as he patted her golden head.

Obediently, Elvira Culp gathered up their sun bonnets, and taking the frightened child by the hand, hurried away to the safety of the wagon.

"Now, Man," he continued as he pulled his boots back on his feet. "How do you know there are Indians over there?" he asked the man with lowered voice.

The horseman began to regain his composure, as he dismounted from his horse. The poor animal danced and jumped, snorting nervously through his nostrils from fright and exertion. White sudsy sweat covered his lovely roan coat, while foam dripped from his mouth.

"They're Injuns, all right," the man assured Noah. "And they're up to no good," he added with certainty.

Novice Ticket Steps

By Joseph A. Smith

More License Information

As you are all well aware by now, the dual test you will have to take in order to qualify for your Novice license will consist of first a code test in both sending (using your own hand key) and receiving using plain text (usually chosen at random) at the required 25 characters per minute.

This really isn't too hard, so you then will take the relatively easy theory examination of 20 multiple choice questions. A thorough study of the license study manual questions will be a Big help here: so don't fail to pay close attention to these!

Obviously, however, you gain little in radio knowledge simply by reading questions and memorizing answers; therefore, as you study a question you would be wise to consult the A.R.R.L. Handbook for a more thorough discussion of the material covered in the sample question then being considered.

While the examination questions are based to some extent on the material given in the sample questions, the actual examination questions ARE NOT THE SAME EXACT ONES NATURALLY! Nor are they necessarily restricted only to this material.

Thus further study of this material in more detail is a wise thing. It will also help in the long run towards preparing for the next step—the GENERAL or CONDITIONAL LICENSE. With either, the amateur enjoys wider operating privileges, and is not restricted to crystal control operation as is a Novice.

Quite often very helpful articles on theory especially planned for the Novice will be found in both "CQ" and "QST" magazines.

Code Speed Boster

While most all Novice theory has now been pretty well covered, you must keep it WELL in mind. We will now turn to boosting that code speed. By now you should be able to recognize letters and numbers readily; if not, find out which ones are still causing trouble and practice them THOROUGHLY.

You would be wise to start gathering the following tools in your tool box:

Soldering iron, rotary drill and assorted bits, a 1' 16" in diameter socket hole punch, wire cutter and stripper, long nose pliers, tape (both electrical and a measuring type tape), and a fine grain steel file.

What To Study

Study this week might go something like this:

CODE—Monday, study Lesson No. 8 thoroughly; Tuesday, review and recheck for troublesome characters; Wednesday, study Lesson No. 9 carefully; Thursday, review punctuations and continue PLAIN TEXT practice; Friday, do Lesson No. 10 as suggested or try actually copying some QSO's on the NOVICE band.

THEORY: Monday, study question No. 22 through 25; Tuesday, study questions No. 26 through 28; Wednesday, study questions No. 29 through 32; Thursday and Friday, general over-all review of ALL sample Novice exam questions.

The Post Sitter
By EMMA MAE LEONARD

When birders set out in search of a special bird, they know that they may not find it. The anticipation, however, is almost as exciting as finding it; there is usually a good substitute for the bird that has flown. So the members of the Jacksonville High School Bird Club learned one May morning when they went in search of the Bobolinks in the alfalfa field where they had been located a few days before.

As we were driving along the highway leading to the scout camps in a heavy unexpected shower of rain, we caught sight of a fairly large bird standing on a nearby fence post. "There is a Yellowlegs. I've seen lots of them this year," said one of the boys. However, he was mistaken; it was an Upland Plover, a new bird to half of the club members in the car. They had a good chance to study it too, for we crept near enough so that they could see the characteristic markings without binoculars.

There stood this long-legged, long- necked, light brown creature for all to view. With its pigeon-like head, rather short bill, thin-neck, chunky body, and long-tailed appearance, it seemed a silly-looking bird standing out there in the rain. However, its round dark eyes, prominent against a light background spoke to us in an unassuming way, suggesting that its owner knew what it was doing.

The Upland Plover has been a puzzle to many spring motorists along the highway, but it shouldn't be. There is no other bird that can really be mistaken for it. This buffy-brown bird habitually perches on fence posts and sometimes telephone poles along upland prairies, burnt meadows, and extensive fields. There aren't too many Upland Plovers, but they are easy to spot, profiled against the sky or the meadow.

Since it was almost time for the boys to go back to school, we drove on to a side road and turned around. On our return, we had the treat to see the same Upland Plover rise from its post and drop down on another one. As it landed, characteristic of the bird, it raised its long wings high and then clapped them against its sides. There it stood in the same posture, eyeing the highway and us in our car.

From now on the Upland Plover will be harder to see, for it is undoubtedly nesting. It builds its nest in a rather thick bunch of grass, a simple nest of dry grass leaves. Since the bird is almost the color of dead grass, it is almost impossible to find it on the nest. When it sneaks through the pasture grass, it doesn't look like the same plover that had perched on the fence post, but its curious head and neck will tell you that it is.

Little Snow Chief

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 2: Puppy Days

I tried to show off by tumbling around on the grass, but I was not so brave when the lady reached down and picked me up, even if she did cuddle me under her chin and pat my head. To tell the truth, I was very much afraid!

My first Mistress was trying to tell her that I was too young to take away from my mother, and that I should not be weaned until I was six weeks old; but the lady insisted she would feed me often and warm my milk. Then, to my great sorrow, she handed my Mistress a five dollar bill, and holding me tenderly in her arms, she carried me to her car and got in!

That was the last time I ever saw my good mother, and my little sister and brother. The last I remember. . .I shall never quite forget. . .my mother was standing with her bristles up giving short, angry barks at the stranger who dared to carry one of her little ones away! Dear mother. . .I often wondered later how long she had my sister and brother to fondle and nurse and lick their silky hair; as for me, that was the saddest moment of my whole life!

A man was sitting in the front seat of the car, and he drove for the lady, my new Mistress; and I soon learned that he was to be my master, and a very kindly one at that.

New Sights

As we rode along the country road. . .almost all roads were dirt in those years. . .my Mistress held me in her lap, and kept me wrapped in a soft blanket to keep me warm.

Before this experience, I warmed myself against my good mother's silky body, and she seemed so soft and sure. I wasn't so happy with the blanket, but it did keep me warm and when I put my cold, little nose against my Mistress' hand, it too, was soft and friendly. So I ventured to lick it with my small, red tongue.

When she reached down and patted my head and smiled, I felt much better. . .only I still kept feeling that sad something in my puppy heart, for every baby wants its mother, and I wasn't any different from little "human" ones, when it came to wanting my "own" mother.

After we had ridden several miles, the car stopped in front of a big, strange house and my Mistress got out, still holding me in her arms, and we went inside where she sat me down upon the floor.

Big Strange World

My, it was a big house. . .not at all like the little one on my own lawn! I was never inside my first Mistress' house. She did not believe in letting pets come inside, and I can tell you, the room I found myself in now, was a big world to me!

I began to investigate things right away, and I made it fine until night came on, then it was terrible. I was so lonely and hungry, and I began to whine. My, how I wanted my own Mother, and my brother and little sister!

What Do You Think?

By Jerry Lawless

More On Clear Thinking

Sometimes in our reading or listening we come across arguments in which we don't know if one of the participants' convictions are contrary or contradictory to the other person's convictions.

To illustrate briefly: if Mr. "X" reaches the conclusion: "All men can be frightened" and Mr. "Y" opposes him with the conclusion: "No men can be frightened," there isn't much doubt that Mr. "Y's" conclusion is contrary to Mr. "X's" because the two conclusions are at opposite extremes.

Also, it is easy to see that the statement "All children like toys" is contradictory to the statement "Some children don't like toys" because the last statement denies the first.

In more complicated arguments, however, it is harder to detect the difference, making it necessary to know the distinguishing characteristics between the two. The main one is that two contrary statements can be false but two contradictory statements cannot both be false. Being able to distinguish the type of opposition between statements will help us to know if an argument is a valid or an invalid one.

Although the above factors aren't all that are involved in the process of straight thinking, nevertheless, I feel that they are among the most important. By applying them to our self-expression and by using them to evaluate the communications of others, we will strengthen our understanding of human behavior and in turn, our own usefulness in life.

Lincoln's Home

In Lincoln's Home there was a sitting room. In that sitting room were some toys the boys played with. There were some marbles, a toy riding horse, a wagon, and some hoops.

Mr. Lincoln's room had a wardrobe in it. He had a desk with important papers and books on it. There is a bowl and water in it. It is called his shaving place. In the room is some of the original wall paper with some glass over it.

Mrs. Lincoln's room has a big bed with a big trunk beside it. A big wardrobe is beside small cradles for the small boys.

The Lincoln's had a maid and she had a room of her own. She had a small room with no heat in it. A small bed and a small dresser are also in it.

AMERICA

America's lucky
Very lucky indeed
All the nice things we have
We don't really need.
But do you know?
I'm afraid
That I'll have to say
Some people don't care for
All they have today
And some people
Won't share the possessions
They have.
When we ask for donations
They toss their heads
Back and laugh.
But Oh!
We should share
Everything that we can
With some boy or girl
In some other land.
I try to share, I hope
You do too
Although we must do it
It's a hard thing to do.

My Trip to Springfield

We went to Springfield one fine day,
The day was Friday—the first of May.
We traveled along for thirty-five miles,
We saw snakes, gardens, and rubbish piles.
Roger bought a great big hat,
It goes well with his fat.
I bought a souvenir,
It was very queer.
We had a very hard test
And of course, I wasn't the best!
We came back to town.
Our own city of renown.

Space Guard Serial—
DESTINATION EARTH

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Synopsis: Space Guard Ensigns, Ed Speedwell and Jerry Symonds, are passengers on a Space Lift rocket taking off from Venus when a fire starts in the first stage engine. After the fire the rocket starts to collapse but the pilot saves the fourth stage and passengers by putting it into an orbit 200 miles above Venus.

A space boat rescues the passengers from the rocket just in time to catch the Hercules, the last space ship in the space ship train to earth. After they blast off Ed and Jerry take the passengers to their space ships. When they return to the Hercules they find that one of the crew of the UNSS Marconi has left his space bag in the space boat. They put on space suits to retrieve the bag. As they near the air lock of the Marconi part of the ship's wall bursts and Ed and Jerry are engulfed by flying debris.

Chapter 4. Into a Burst Balloon

"Hey there was a man in that compartment," Ed shouted over his radio as he dodged a flying chair.

"Yeah, we better get him back into the cabin quick," answered Jerry as the two men fastened the hooks of their space suits to the unconscious man's space belt clips and rocketed toward the gaping hole in the Marconi's side.

Ed and Jerry hurtled across the damaged compartment and pushed the unconscious man into the compartment's air lock. Once all three were inside the air lock Ed Speedwell started it pressurizing as fast as it could.

When the air lock pressure matched that of the rest of the ship, Ed and Jerry climbed out of their space suits and carried the man they had rescued into the inside compartment of the Marconi. The Marconi's doctor and captain were waiting for the men when they came out of the air lock.

Close Shave

After examining the patient and giving him first aid the doctor turned to Ed and Jerry and said, "It's a good thing you fellows happened along when you did—a few seconds more in vacuum and Caldwell here would have been a goner."

"I'm glad to hear that they were in time, Dr. White," said the captain, "but if that blowout was caused by a structure fault rather than a meteor we may all soon be in the same fix as George here was."

The captain then asked Ed and Jerry, "Did either of you men see a meteor just before the blowout?"

"I didn't notice any, sir," answered Ed.

"Neither did I, sir," answered Jerry.

More Blowouts Ahead

"Then you men and Dr. White take Caldwell to the Hercules in our space boat while the rest of us get into our crash capsules in case of more blowouts," directed the captain.

As Ed and Jerry followed Dr. White to the Marconi's space boat dock they heard the captain order, "All personnel into crash capsules in case of further blowouts," over the ship's public address system.

Soon the four men were aboard the Marconi's space boat, Marconi I, shooting toward the Hercules. On the way they passed the Hercules' crash boats racing to repair the damaged Marconi.

Just as Ed Speedwell was lining up the Marconi I to be hauled aboard the Hercules an announcement came over the boat's radio, "Damage report on the Marconi."

There is usually something interesting to see on this tree at any time of the year.

In middle summer, in early June, the tree is filled with white flower clusters.

The leaves look like big hearts.

Long, king-sized "bean" pods hang on the tree, later, sometimes even through winter. The catalpha is sometimes called the Indian Bean Tree.

Don't take it from us—take it from independent experts and from facts and figures that are now a matter of record. POPULAR SCIENCE sums up Chevy's unmistakably modern style this way: "The fact is, in its price class Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling . . ." This is one more reason your new Chevrolet will bring a higher allowance at trade-in time, as Chevy has over the years. A look at last year's used car prices* shows Chevrolet averaged up to $128 more than comparable models of the other leading low-priced two.

*Based on official Guide Book figures of the National Automobile Dealers Association.

PLUS 5 MORE BIG BESTS OVER ANY OTHER CAR IN CHEVROLET'S FIELD!

Best Brakes. Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in repeated highway speed stopping tests conducted by NASCAR.* And no wonder. Chevrolet's brakes, built for up to two-thirds longer lining life, are the biggest in the low-price field.

*National Association for Stock Car Advancement and Research.

Best Engine. Every motor magazine has given Chevy's standard passenger car and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed, this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Economy. No doubt about this: a pair of Chevrolet sixes came in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—getting the best mileage of any full-size car.

Best Room. Official dimensions reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association make it clear. Chevy's front seat hip room, for example, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

Best Ride. A few minutes behind the wheel will leave no doubt about this. MOTOR TREND magazine sums it up this way: ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

Now that most of the schools are out for the summer and the grades are in, I notice that some U. S. educators are talking about getting rid of report cards entirely. This is a project that ought to carry the whole - hearted support of the whole Mickey Mouse set. Report card day in many homes is a time of moaning and groaning and gnashing of molars. Except in rare instances, which we seldom enjoyed as a youngster, Mom and Pop are thunder-struck at Junior's inability to make like a genius. Junior is given the impression that when Pop was a kid he was sharper than a Nobel Prize scientist. Fortunately the records have all disappeared so he's in the clear. Well, with no report cards there might be fewer domestic explosions.

An Akron man who was boiling a couple of eggs let the water boil away, and when he picked up a cackle berry it exploded. He'll be all right . . . except for a slight case of shell shock. A pleasant shock is when you buy a used car and after driving it a month find it a much better car than represented by the car salesman. And yet that is just what happens when you purchase a used car from us. We have some unusual used car bargains on hand now. Come by and test drive the ones that appeal to you . . . E. W. Mrs. Samuel Miner Dooley

Jeannine Easley And Samuel Dooley United Saturday In St. Louis Rites

Miss Jeannine Kay Easley and Samuel Miner Dooley, the Third, members of this year's graduating class at Illinois College, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, June thirteen, at Holy Ghost church, St. Louis, Missouri.

The bride, a former resident here, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary R. Easley of St. Louis and the late Ralph Easley. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Lora Goodrick, 215 Hardin avenue. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Dooley of Watseka.

The Reverend Francis Doyle performed the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by Walter Renfro, long time friend of the family.

White flowers and greenery adorned the altar of the church. Organ selections provided nuptial selections before the ceremony.

The bride's sister, Miss Diane Easley, St. Louis, was her maid of honor. Two college classmates, Miss Dolores Costello and Miss Carole McNamara, both of this city, and Miss Florence Schweizer, St. Louis, were bridesmaids.

Roy Smith of Watseka was best man and ushers and groomsmen were William Fox, Watseka; Glenn Beamer, Taylorville, and Jack Ryan of Jacksonville. Mr. Smith, Mr. Beamer and Mr. Ryan, were college classmates of the couple.

Classic Lace Gown

The blonde bride wore white Chantilly over bridal satin. The dress, featuring a modified Queen Anne collar at the long sleeved snug fitting bodice had a lace panel at the front of the skirt with tiers of lace forming the full skirt ending in a Chapel length train. Sequins and seed pearls trimmed the front bodice of the gown. A queen's crown of seed pearls held her veil of sheer illusion and she carried a lace and satin covered prayer book, the gift of the bridegroom, with a white orchid.

The attendants were gowned in silk organza, styled with scoop cut necklines and brief sleeves. The conventional skirts had floating panels at the back forming a harem drape. Large brimmed picture hats, matching their gowns, tied under the chin, and were in shades corresponding to their respective costumes. Their flowers were cymbidium orchids.

Miss Easley wore coral; Miss Costello, mint green; Miss McNamara, blue, and Miss Schweizer, yellow.

The bride's mother chose green lace with matching chiffon cummerbund. Her hat and accessories were white and her flowers cymbidium orchids. The mother of the groom wore pink lace with black accessories. Her flowers were the same as worn by the bride's mother.

Reception at Straub's

The bride's mother entertained at a two-thirty o'clock reception at Straub's in St. Louis. A feature of the buffet, served to many guests, was the traditional tiered wedding cake. Miss Helen Cobb of Jacksonville registered guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Dooley left St. Louis for a honeymoon in southern states. For traveling the bride wore a black summer cotton tunic dress with white accessories and the white orchid from her wedding bouquet. Following their wedding trip the newlyweds will make their home in Bloomington.

Guests attended the St. Louis ceremony from Jacksonville, Watseka, Vandalia and Springfield. Mrs. Dooley affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon society while a student at college.

He also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Val Cappes and Mrs. Hedwig Kraft of Princeville, who sang, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," "Panis Angelicus" and "O, Lord I Am Not Worthy." At the conclusion of the Mass, the traditional hymn, "Mother, at Thy Feet We're Kneeling" was sung while the bride placed a bouquet of white carnations on the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

The former Miss Ulery, given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of white lace over tulle, styled with a batteau neckline, elbow length sleeves and bouffant ballerina length skirt. A satin cummerbund with a single white rose in front, enhanced the waistline. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held secure by a cap of tulle-covered blossoms. She carried white carnations in colonial bouquet.

Miss Mary Jane Ulery, her sister's only attendant, appeared in deep salmon chiffon and lace. The molded, strapless bodice was worn with a chiffon stole, and the ballerina skirt was formed of alternating ruffles of lace and chiffon. She wore a headband of blue carnations to match the flowers she carried in colonial bouquet.

James Ringhausen was best man. Seating the guests were Harrison Crader, uncle of the bride, and Peter W. Simon.

Earl Long Awaits Sanity Hearing —

No Long Heir In Sight For Governor's Race

Editors Note— While Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long awaits a sanity hearing in Galveston, Tex., his powerful political machine is without an heir with a governor's race on tap in December. The Long influence has been a dominant factor in Louisiana politics since the late Huey P. Long became governor in 1928, and Earl K. Long is—or was—undisputed master of the political legacy Huey left. In this last of a three-part series, AP writer Hugh Mulligan deals with Earl Long and the political repercussions in Louisiana while Long is confined in a Galveston psychiatric clinic.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— With fiery Gov. Earl K. Long in a Texas mental clinic awaiting a sanity hearing, the powerful Long faction that his brother Huey founded faces a governor's race in December with no heir apparent in sight.

"There is no heir apparent," says State Sen. Charles Deichmann, a Long leader from New Orleans. "Earl doesn't believe in grooming successors. He always busts up his organization and rebuilds after losing an election. When he's out, he wants the whole bunch out with him. That way everyone stays dependent on him and nobody gets big ideas."

For nearly 30 years the sulphur-tongued "last of the red hot poppas," as Earl once called himself, has been in and out of office, running for governor or lieutenant governor in every election since the hey-day of Huey, with the exception of 1952 when he tried to handpick a successor and lost overwhelmingly.

Huey Long, with his dynamic personality, his emotional appeal to the common man, his ruthless, power-grabbing tactics, founded the dynasty and bequeathed it a spiritual figurehead, the image of the "martyred Kingfish."

But to younger brother Earl, now 63 and in his third term as governor, must go the credit for rescuing the dynasty from the wreckage of the Louisiana scandals and building it into a lasting political machine by sheer force of politicking.

There are and have been other Longs on the Louisiana political scene. Huey's son is the state's junior U.S. senator. Another brother, George, died in office as a congressman. Huey's widow, Rose, filled out the remainder of the Kingfish's Senate term when an assassin's bullet cut him down. A third cousin, Speedy Long, 30, is now in the State Senate and regarded as a comer, even though elected as an anti-Long from Earl's home district.

But only Earl, of all the Long kin, has been able to don Huey's mantle and lay claim to his devoted personal following. This he has had to do for himself. Huey didn't believe in grooming successors either, even from inside the family.

Earl, who got his first political job from Huey and stumped faithfully in his behalf, found that out when he sought the lieutenant governor slot on the ticket that was to carry on the work while the Kingfish went on to the U.S. Senate and, so the dream went, to the presidency. Thinking the kid brother might be getting too big for his britches, Huey gave the nomination to a lesser member of the heirarchy. Earl in retaliation broke with his brother to run and lose on a rival ticket.

Claiming deathbed forgiveness, Earl managed to get back in the fold in time for the Louisiana scandals, the half-billion dollar plundering of the state treasury that followed in the wake of Huey's assassination. He moved up to the governorship when Dick Leche resigned to go to the penitentiary.

A tax and spend politician, Earl has made up for his lack of personal magnetism by appealing to the masses with liberal welfare benefits (highest in the nation), free school lunches, charity hospitals, rural roads, high teacher salaries, and by rigidly adhering to a spoils system of rewarding the faithful with jobs in return for obedience and contributions at campaign time.

Straw hat perched on the back of his head, stomach protruding over low slung trousers, Earl plays his champion of the poor role to the hilt, whether blistering "them lying newspapers" in a profanity-strewn stump speech or patrolling the aisles of the Legislature to browbeat passage of his bills.

Public office has been a way of life—more than that—an obsession, with him. In Louisiana, the governor can't succeed himself. But "Ole Uncle Earl" has tried every trick in and out of the book to keep himself in power. Defeated for governor in 1940, he tried to have himself named secretary of state when the nominee died without taking office. At the end of his 1948 term, he attempted to call a constitutional convention to extend his term without a vote of the people.

And next week's sanity hearing will determine whether he can carry out his latest scheme to resign in favor of Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar and then run to succeed him. The sound trucks are painted and waiting.

Without Earl doing the hoeing, the harvest this year could go to the anti-Long camp where several popular figures, like young Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans and former Gov. Jimmy Davis are eyeing the race. At the moment the big house on the hill that Huey built stands empty, and his followers seem reluctant to try the door. At least until they find out whether the big boss is coming back.

Illini Girls State Has Only One Sad Note

By Robert H. Davis

"What is so tragic about the whole thing is that nobody knows what it is all about. When they told me that I had been chosen to attend Girls State, I had absolutely no idea what it was. And strange as it seems, this has become one of the most thrilling experiences in my entire lifetime."

A fair haired, starry eyed 16 year-old delegate to Girls State finished speaking and turned toward the chapel as the first strains of the processional floated through the door. Karolyn Jean Kaufman of Evanston, Ill., began her march down the aisle in ceremonies which were to inaugurate her as the 1958-59 Governor of Illini Girls State.

For her as for all the other 400 delegates, Girls State had become a once in a lifetime experience which she would never forget. And as I thought back over the past week's activities, I understand what an outstanding experience in citizenship this organization actually was. And I could understand only too well Karolyn's statement. It really is a tragedy that more people do not know or understand the purpose and functionings of Illini Girls State which meets every year on the campus of MacMurray College.

Girls State itself grew out of an idea which first made itself known through the counterpart of Girls State, Premier Boys State which is held annually in Springfield. Both organizations grew out of a feeling and a need to educate the youth of today in the workings and responsibilities of the citizen of tomorrow.

The first effort in the history of Girls State was put forth in 1940 when first Girls State delegates attended the initial session held in Jacksonville. The effort was highly successful and encouraging and has steadily developed since that time. Each year seems to be just a little bit better.

Delegates to the session are selected by local American Legion Auxiliary chapters upon the basis of good character, good citizenship, scholastic standing and numerous other criteria. Each chapter sends its delegate and pays for her expenses.

Government at Work

Girls State is just exactly what the name implies, a state composed of nearly 500 girls who for one week come together and carry on all the regular activities of local county and state governments. Here in one compact week is a miniature example of the every day business of governing this great state in which we live. Here is an experience which can do more to make the workings of government understood than all the textbooks and patriotic speeches ever assembled. Here is an experience in government.

Very early in the week, girls are assigned to dormitories which are divided into cities, and counties. These are the basic organs through which all the other functions of Girls State will work. Beginning immediately (time is so short) the delegates from all parts of the state are taught what the local offices are, what their duties are and what the qualifications for office are. Then, after proper petitions have been filed, and all requirements for candidates fulfilled, city elections are held to determine municipal authorities. Those girls elected will be given special training in city government and carry special authorities throughout the rest of the week.

Political parties, the Nationalists and the Federalists, are organized with officials just the same as national and state parties; emblems are adopted; mottos created; and the campaign for county officials gets under way. Again petitions are circulated and all requirements set up by actual state laws are fulfilled at Girls State. Then county officials are selected and the state is well on its way to being completed.

Campaigns, Elections

The climax of the week is of course the campaigning and elections for the state officials, and the inauguration ceremonies. Political rallies, campaign speeches, and party strategy all go to make up a very exciting two days as the girls work themselves up to the final elections. Then comes the waiting . . . the final triumph . . . and the climax to a glorious week of instructive activity.

What actually goes on and what is accomplished at Girls State cannot be described in a few short sentences. The effects of this activity are felt by many people, in many places, in many different ways. This is an experiment in democracy which one will have to look a long way to best.

Anyone who has worked at or attended or in any way been connected with Girls State can sympathize with Governor Kaufman. And as the capable official put it, "It is such a pity that more people do not take an active interest in the workings of such a unique experiment in democracy."

This is the tragedy of Girls State.

Girls State To Begin 19th Annual Session At M'Murray Tuesday

Party caucuses to nominate candidates for city offices will be part of first day activities when the 19th annual Illini Girls State begins Tuesday, June 16, at MacMurray College.

Established at MacMurray College in 1940, the week-long meeting will begin when about 500 high school juniors from every county in Illinois arrive by bus at the Jacksonville campus. They will register, take physical exams, and receive room assignments before launching into activities.

Sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Girls State will be conducted until termination June 23 by a staff of about 70 women active in the auxiliary. This includes 25 counselors, who were formerly girls staters and who now are attending college.

The girls are selected because of their interest in civics and government along with their qualities of leadership and good character. They will elect not only city, but county and state officials in the process of setting up a mythical state patterned after Illinois government.

Elect Mayor, Aldermen

City officials to be elected will be a mayor, two aldermen, a city clerk and city treasurer. The mayor, upon her election, shall appoint a city police officer, a city superintendent of schools and may make such other appointments as seems advisable. County officials to be elected include a judge, superintendent, state's attorney, and county clerk.

Offices of the three branches of state government will also be filled by general election. In the legislative branch, one state senator from each senatorial district will be elected, and three members of the House of Representatives from each representative district will also be included. In the judicial branch, court judges will be elected. Executive offices will include lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor of public accounts, superintendent of public instruction, and governor.

Political Parties

Each delegate to Girls State will be assigned to a political party, either the federalist or the nationalist, at the time of registration Tuesday afternoon. Each party adopts its platform, cheers, campaign slogan, and motto at the State Party Convention and rises or falls in its campaign according to the appeal made to the citizens.

In each of the six congressional districts, a state central committeeman is elected in each party at the primary. Upon their election at the primary, the state central committeemen meet on Friday afternoon, and elect from their own number the chairman of the state central committee. She becomes the head of the party affairs in the state from then on. In addition, each political party holds its state party convention as designated on the calendar.

Post Office

A regular post office is set up during the week, which will be operated according to government regulations. Girls attend the church of their choice on Sunday morning and are taken to Springfield one day to visit state buildings and the Lincoln shrines.

A college spokesman said Saturday that "the college welcomes you, and we all hope this experience will help you appreciate the precious heritage that is yours in a democracy. Now that you are here, look about you at this beautiful campus in which the traditions of a century-old college for women are preserved, and in which new traditions are being formed in new MacMurray College for Men."

Sperm whales, which breath air, can stay under water for an hour or more.

152 Attend Annual Greene, Scott Royal Neighbor Meet

PATTERSON — One hundred fifty-two persons registered during the afternoon and evening when the Greene-Scott Royal Neighbor Camps convened for their annual meeting Thursday, June 11, which was held this year at the Patterson school gymnasium, with the local camp as hostess. Mrs. Elizabeth Coker and Mrs. Iva Prindle had charge of the registration and each member received a plastic coin cap in case, as a souvenir gift from the Royal Neighbor Society.

Besides members of the Greene and Scott County Camps, guests were present from Jerseyville, Pittsfield, Grafton and Jacksonville Camps. State Supervisor Esther Stanley was present from Jerseyville, Mrs. Virginia Vasconcellos, deputy from Morgan County, Mrs. Jessie Smith, deputy from Greene and Scott County, and former deputy, Mrs. Olive Green, of Greenfield, were among those present.

Convenes At 2 P.M.

The convention was called to order at 2 p.m. by County Oracle Mrs. Grace Brown of the Patterson Camp, followed by the presentation of County Officers, which were as follows: district deputy, Jessie G. Smith, of Roodhouse; oracle, Grace Brown, Patterson; past oracle, Wilmoth Todd, Roodhouse; vice oracle, Julia Brown, Winchester; chancellor, Maude Norris, Hillview; recorder-receiver, Nona Owdom, Patterson.

Marshal, Mollie Todd, Roodhouse; assistant marshal, Iva Moss, Winchester; inner sentinel, Lida Dawdy, Patterson; outer sentinel, Lucy Linker, White Hall; flag bearer, Eileen Newberry, Winchester.

Graces — Faith, Hazel Deavers, White Hall; Courage, Mabel Killebrew, Hillview; Modesty, Anna Jones, Hillview; Unselfishness, Nettie Langley, Roodhouse; Endurance, Margaret Barker, Hillview; and Musician, Hazel Sage, Roodhouse.

The state and district officers were then introduced, followed by the presentation of the flag, by Eileen Newberry, of Winchester.

Group Singing

The song, "God Bless America," was sung by the group, and prayer was given by County Chancellor Maude Norris of Hillview.

The address of welcome was extended by County Oracle Grace Brown, with response by State Supervisor Esther Stanley, which was followed by campaign songs.

The business consisted of appointment of committees, (By-laws, Resolution, and Finance), minutes from the last County meeting, reports, selection of next year's meeting place, election of County officers, reading and disposing of bills, and reports of committees, who were: By-laws, Ruth Barnard, White Hall; Margaret Barker, Hillview; and Bessie Frech, Kane. Resolutions, Mae Lumsden, Winchester; Lela Hubbard, Hillview; and Zella Ward, Hillview. Finance, Cecil Hawk, Roodhouse; Nona Owdom, Patterson; and Ethel Heaton, Manchester.

School of Instruction

A school of instruction by State Supervisor Esther C. Stanley followed, and a talk was given by former Greene County Deputy Ollie Green, of Greenfield. The coin collection was taken and the county officers installed. Jeanie Pence and Kevin Rollins, in costume, presented the county officers and state workers with dinner tickets. The group then adjourned to the dining rooms, where a banquet was served at 6 o'clock by the Patterson Camp.

Table and room decorations were in charge of Mary Nagle, Hazel Strowmatt, Bertha Nicholson, Lida Dawdy, and Maxine Cumby. The menu consisted of baked ham, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, cabbage salad, relishes, and deviled eggs, with pie as dessert. Mr. Lorenzo Mastropietro furnished accordion music during the meal.

The evening session, which was open to the public began at 7:30 with the formal introduction of officers by the Roodhouse Camp, followed by presentation of the flag, by a member of Jerseyville Camp.

Evening Program

A short program followed, consisting of the following numbers: song, by Linda Hallock, Ellen Allen, Nancy Anderson, Janice Pence and Judy Bain, all of Patterson, with Polly Wells at the piano; piano trio, by Donna Shire, Barbara Bateman and Sherry Pilkington of White Hall; piano duet, "The American School March," by Barbara Bateman and Tamara DeVault of White Hall; reading by Ruth Broche, from Roodhouse. Each were presented with gifts for their part on the program.

The impressive memorial service was given by the Winchester Camp, followed by the class adoption, by the Jerseyville Camp. The class included Audrey Surbeck of Patterson, Rita Young of Hillview, Mrs. Esther Scholl and daughters, Clara Ann and Betty, of Jerseyville, and Ruth Ann Rice of Roodhouse.

The address of the evening followed by Supervisor Stanley, and the coin collection taken, following the closing of the Camp.

Journey To Love

To Kathie's dismay, Sam continued to address himself solely to her, chiding her for running away from Honolulu before he had had a chance to show her the city. And she was edgily aware that from her other side Alex was unashamedly eavesdropping, while Leilani was being ungallantly neglected.

"Grandfather was delighted with you," Sam told her. "Do you know what the old duffer said? That if I didn't 'court' you, he would!"

"He's sweet," Kathie said. She had been more awed by his grandfather than attracted.

When the evening was over, Kathie sighed with relief, aching all over from the tension she had been under. Sam was driving Leilani's car, but it was Alex who put it in the garage after the girls and Sam got out at the front door. It was only too obvious that Alex was a frequent visitor at the Powerses' in Hilo.

When the two girls had retired to their room, Leilani turned to Kathie with a troubled face and said, "Kathie, I can't understand Mother's rushing off like that."

"It was probably business," Kathie tried to soothe her.

"But she must have been terribly upset," Leilani said, and her lips quivered a little. "If she hadn't been, she would never have left us in the house with Sam and Alex with nobody but the servants around."

Bea was afraid she would have to explain her trip, Kathie thought involuntarily.

It was hard for Kathie to keep still. Leilani had forgotten her earlier annoyance. Only her promise to Bea kept Kathie from confiding in her daughter.

"She'll have the simplest explanation in the world, you'll see," Kathie scoffed lightly. And then, to change the subject, she said, "I was so surprised to see Sam tonight! You didn't tell me he was coming over."

Leilani shrugged. "Oh, I though' Mums had told you. She was so pleased that Sam wanted to come!" She had a complacent little smile, and Kathie suddenly knew why she had lost her sulky annoyance.

Kathie asked carefully, "Are you going to marry Sam, Leilani?"

Leilani lifted golden eyebrows. "Let's wait until he proposes, at least!"

Kathie sighed. "It's too complex for me," she said. "I think you want both Alex and Sam."

Leilani laughed in genuine amusement. "You've got something there," she said.

* * *

Sunday morning was lazy and golden and sheer magic. The four of them had breakfast out on the lanai, the girls in shorts.

Leilani was in gay spirits. "Suki is packing a lunch for us," she announced, over the coffee cups. "We're going to put on our swim suits and drive out to Black Sands beach for a picnic and swim."

But Leilani's high spirits collapsed like a punctured balloon when they started. Alex had backed the car out of the garage and she suggested that he drive it, since he knew the rough spots in the narrow road.

"Be glad to," Alex said.

"I'll sit with Kathie," Sam suddenly said, and took her arm to help her in.

Leilani turned around with so surprised a look that Kathie realized she had expected Sam to make that suggestion to her. But if Sam saw her surprise, he gave no sign, and Leilani quietly climbed in front beside Alex.

The drive to the beach was over a winding highway, banked with green and lined with speared clumps of yellow and white ginger in full bloom. They climbed steadily, and occasionally the clouds hanging over the volcano Mauna Loa, lifted enough so that they could glimpse the sloping summit.

The spot they chose for picnicking was the most picturesque Kathie had ever seen. A semicircular beach, ringed with a flowing curve of coconut palms, stretched down to blue water capped with white surf. And the sand was as black as night.

Alex told her, the sand was pulverized black lava from an early eruption of Mauna Loa that had rolled all the way to the sea.

It was not yet dark when they drove up the Powerses' driveway, tired and almost hoarse from singing all the way back.

* * *

Suki met them at the door with the news that Honolulu had been trying all afternoon to reach Leilani.

"Call Operator One," she said, and Leilani went straight to the telephone.

"Shall I mix a drink, Leilani?" Alex said.

"Please do," Leilani said, from the telephone. "We've just about time for one before we dress. What time does your plane leave?"

"We're both booked on the eight o'clock," Sam said.

"Hello?" Leilani said into the instrument. "Hello? This is Leilani Powers speaking. Who—?" She was silent a long moment. Then in a voice suddenly taut with strain, the others heard her say, "I'm her daughter."

Alex leaped for the telephone, but before he could reach it, Leilani said faintly, "May I call you back later" and put down the receiver. She was milk pale, her pretty face almost stupidly blank with shock.

"Darling, what is it?" Alex said urgently.

"There's been an accident," Leilani said stiffly.

"Is Bea hurt?"

"They said she was—dead," Leilani whispered.

And it was Alex who took her in his arms.

The ordinary bridge player would go down one at six notrump with this hand. He would win the queen of spades with the king, go over to dummy to take the diamond finesse and eventually lose a spade trick also.

The expert would note a better play. He would cash the ace of spades and note the drop of the ten spot by East. Then he would win four club tricks, discarding his deuce of diamonds and take three hearts stopping in dummy.

By that time West would have discarded down to nine and one spade and king and one diamond. South would play jack-small of spades and West would have to lead away from his king of diamonds.

The late Harold C. Richard of New York held the West hand at the Whist Club many years ago. He knew all about end plays and managed to set the hand by discarding his two low diamonds on the clubs.

Now declarer could have made the hand by dropping Harold's king but he wasn't looking at all the cards. He still tried for the end play and Harold set the hand with the thirteenth heart.

MOVING TARGET

BRONSON, Kan. (AP)—A mother wren built a nest between the battery and the tool box on Melvin Stewart's tractor. Even when Stewart used the machine, the mother bird stayed near the nest, often remaining on it, until the eggs hatched.

Then she went in search of food and flew after the tractor as it made its rounds, coming in on target to feed her young.

Arthur Clark New Principal Of Unit 40

HARDIN—Arthur Clark, teacher in the high school at Sullivan, Ill., for the past ten years, was hired as principal of Unit 40 high school at a meeting Tuesday night of the unit school board. He will succeed Richard Adair, who resigned to accept a similar position at Viola, Ill.

Clark was band, vocal and commercial teacher in Sullivan, and also supervised student teachers from Eastern Illinois University at Charleston. Married, and the father of two children who are in college, Clark received his master's degree from the University of Illinois. He will begin his duties here on Aug. 10.

Other business transacted at Tuesday night's meeting included the hiring of Mrs. Loyal Linthicum as school treasurer, and a resolution to sell the Oak Grove school building, which is no longer used. Mrs. Linthicum replaces Philip Aderton, whose resignation will become effective June 30, after many years of service as school treasurer.

It was also decided to open the libraries in some of the attendance centers during the summer, under the supervision of Mrs. Jesse Ringhausen, school librarian. According to L. V. Kinser, unit superintendent, the schedule has not been set up, but it is thought that the libraries in the high school building and in the Tureman building in Hardin will both be open one afternoon a week, after completion of maintenance work in the buildings, probably after July 1.

The school board has not hired an English and Spanish teacher for the high school as yet, and two grade school teachers are needed, one for the eighth grade at Hardin and one for the middle grades at the Kampsville attendance center. It is hoped that both of the grade school posts can be filled by male teachers.

James Ringhausen, Hardin grade school principal, has begun taking the annual school census in the unit, Kinser said.

Chapin Gleaners Elect Officers

CHAPIN — The Gleaners class held its June meeting at the home of Adelaide Brockhouse. Mrs. Leah Reams read the Scripture.

The following officers were elected during the business meeting: president, Inez Bonds; vice president, Mable Bobbitt; secretary, Dora Postlewaite; assistant secretary, Adelaide Brockhouse; treasurer, Anna Delph; flower chairman, Anna Delph. Mable Bobbitt is in charge of the cards, and Leah Reams, Dora Postlewaite, and Mable Bobbitt will plan the program.

The class voted to sponsor a fund for purchasing a stained glass window for the background of the baptistry. Members and friends of the church may help with this project and payment may be made to the treasurer, Mrs. Delph, or to the fund at the Chapin State bank.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Nina Neill and Mary Bump.

The July meeting will be a picnic dinner at Nichols Park.

SETTLE DIFFERENCES—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer (left) and Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard walk together after a meeting of the Christian Democratic Party in Bonn, West Germany. At the party caucus, Adenauer apologized to Erhard for casting doubts on the latter's views about public policy. This assured that Adenauer's desire to remain as Chancellor would not receive any serious challenges. The apology bridged what appeared to be bitter differences between Adenauer and Erhard. —NEA Telephoto
